Marines 'Mopping Up' Japs on Solomons

WASHINGTON (AP)—The navy reported today U.S. marines were "mopping up" remnants of Japanese forces on islands recently captured in the Solomon archipelago.

At the same time, the navy reported an enemy destroyer or cruiser had been bombed and set afire.

Opposition on the Solomons in the first three days consisted of "casual bombardments" of marine shore positions. Only minor damage was inflicted, the navy said.

Willkie to Visit Russia, Mid-east

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie announced this afternoon that he would leave in about three weeks for the Near East and Russia on a trip to "perform certain services for the government."

President Roosevelt, Willkie said, asked him to undertake these services. It is appropriate, he added, only for the President to say what their nature is.

The 1940 Republican presidential nominee did assert that "of course" he hoped to see Joseph Stalin, Russian premier. Also he hopes to visit fighting fronts.

Will Raid Again

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Commenting on the Dieppe raid, Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian army commander, said today: "The combined sea, land and air forces of the United Kingdom, the United Nations and Canada, and the fighting French have struck a heavy blow at the enemy and they will do it again and again until the Nazi pest is crushed out of existence."

Farley Beats F.D.R.

NEW YORK (AP)—State Attorney-General John J. Bennett Jr. of Brooklyn, won the Democratic nomination for Governor of New York today in a contest with U.S. Senator James M. Mead of Buffalo, who had the endorsement of President Roosevelt. Bennett's campaign was directed by former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley.

Greek Ship Sunk

NEW YORK (CP)—The Australian radio said this afternoon a 10,000-ton Greek steamship which one day earlier had sighted a blazing United States vessel, was sunk by a Japanese submarine 40 miles from Noumea, in New Caledonia.

An Australian submarine chaser picked up the Greek vessel's crew eight hours after they had taken to the boats. A seaman said the crew feared they would be machine-gunned in the lifeboats. Instead, they saw a Japanese throw overboard three tins. The submarine signaled the men to pick up the tins and they were found to be full of biscuits.

Indian Rioters Kill 9

NAGPUR, India (AP)—Indian dissidents beat and burned two policemen to death and killed three others in an attack at Ashti, a commune said today. Ashti is near the headquarters of Mohandas K. Gandhi. Four district officials at Chimus were wounded to death and their bodies were burned by a mob.

Brokerage Fraud

TAGOMA, Wash. (AP)—Charges that more than 6,000 persons in the northwest were defrauded by a Seattle brokerage firm, were filed in federal court today.

Graft Nose Later

VANCOUVER (CP)—Surgeons attending 14-year-old Esther Davis, Langley Prairie, whose nose was bitten off by her pet dog Aug. 11, said today grafting of a new nose cannot be undertaken for some time yet, because of danger of infection.

Brazil Holds Nazis As Hostages

Hold in Caucasus Red Army Strikes On 4 Key Drives On North Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW (AP)—The Red army has taken the initiative in battles developing on four key central-Russian fronts along the 400 miles from Bryansk to Lake Ilmen while holding doggedly before Stalingrad and in the Caucasus, battlefront dispatches reported today.

Centres of the Russian attack were listed as the Bryansk front, 210 miles southwest of Moscow; the salient 130 miles west of Moscow in the Vyazma area; the Kalinin-Rzhev salient, 130 miles northwest of the capital, and the Lake Ilmen front south of Leningrad.

This was the first specific mention of Red army offensives on these fronts in Russian dispatches, although German communiques for days have told of desperate resistance there by Nazi forces hurled onto the defensive by strong Soviet attacks.

TAKE HEAVY TOLL

No details of the central campaigns were given, but the Russians said they had taken a heavy toll of garrison forces left to man the central and northern battle-line while the Nazis massed their greatest strength for the Don bend and Caucasus offensive.

"Great losses were suffered by the Germans on the Bryansk, Western, Kalinin and Northwestern fronts where the initiative in active military operations belongs to our troops," said Red Star, the army newspaper.

In the south, where the Germans concentrated newly-reinforced troops and air strength, the Russians said some Axis troops had forced a crossing in the elbow of the Don in their drive upon Stalingrad, but were "completely wiped out" on the east bank.

CAVALRY PROTECTS

While Red Army men on the Steppes between the Don and the Volga thus were reported to have accounted for Nazi bridgeheads, Russians withdrew again in the battle of the western Caucasus behind screening cavalry counter-attacks and the Kuban city of Krasnodar was left in the hands of the Germans.

More than 2,000 Germans were reported killed and 79 tanks destroyed or burned out in action Wednesday and the communiques said 5,500 Germans were slain and Nazi material heavily damaged during the last five days about Voronezh, a battle-scarred city on the upper Don.

The German crossing of the Don elbow, one objective of a campaign launched by Field Marshal Fedor von Bock from the Kursk-Kharkov front June 28, was reported made southeast of Kletska.

Alberta to Make Aviation Gasoline

CALGARY (CP)—Construction of an aviation gasoline plant at a cost of $1,000,000 on Imperial Oil property in Alberta now is under way, it was announced officially Wednesday.

The Allied War Supply Corporation, backed by the British, United States and Canadian governments, is undertaking the project, which may be completed this winter.

The plant will produce alkylate from high fractional gases. This fluid when blended with ordinary gasoline yields a high octane product essential in the operation of powerful modern war planes.

While aviation gasoline has been manufactured in Alberta by the Imperial and British American companies, it has been necessary to import the alkylate from the United States. The new plant will be entirely self-sufficient.

Special Program

A special program, "No Proudler Pledge," dedicated to Canadian nurses, will be broadcast at 7:15 Friday evening over CBC.

Hiring and Firing Of Workers Ended

OTTAWA (CP)—Time-honored rights of Canadians to work or not to work at all, and to work or not to work for a particular employer are to be restricted in the interests of maximum mobilization of the nation's manpower.

In an address broadcast over the national network of the CBC Wednesday night, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said no employer will be permitted to lay off an employee and no employee will be permitted to quit his employment without giving reasonable notice in writing, a copy of which must be sent to the nearest employment office.

This was one of a series of measures embodied in his proposed plan to bring all but "the very old, the very young and the disabled" into their maximum usefulness in war activity.

Other measures announced as in progress or to come included:

1. Development of day nurseries and other family welfare agencies in connection with increasing employment of women.
2. Curtailment or elimination of all nonessential civilian activities.
3. Continuance of labor training "on a growing scale."

World Reaction To Dieppe Raid

By Associated Press
Reaction to the commando raid on Dieppe Wednesday were expressed in capitals of the world today.

From Moscow, news of the raid was reported to be quickening Soviet hopes of a second front in western Europe. Reports of the raid were displayed prominently in the Moscow press, although there was no immediate official comment.

Stories from Vichy, France, told of hand-to-hand combat in the streets of flaming Dieppe. Civilian estimates placed the number of Allied raiders at about 10,000 landed in 300 to 400 small boats and tank scoops on the fortified beaches while 13 British warships hurled shells into the German coast defences. The raiders forced an entry into the city and occupied part of the lower quarters, the reports said.

From Berlin came claims of 1,500 prisoners being taken, along with many dead and wounded, against 400 German casualties. German communiques claimed 15 ships were sunk and 19 others damaged, and said one force of 35 transports was forced back.

Allied plane losses were 112 as against only 35 German planes shot down, Nazi sources said.

The BBC was reported as broadcasting that one prisoner captured during the raid was a Hollander who had been sent with a draft of reinforcements to the Dieppe area. The soldier gave himself up as soon as he had a chance.

High Ranking Japs In Inner Mongolia

CHUNGKING (AP)—A Chinese army spokesman reported today that high Japanese officers, led by Gen. Shunroku Hata, former commander of Japanese forces in central China, visited Mongolia last month.

He said the visit evidently was intended to strengthen the defences of Inner Mongolia, which borders on Soviet-protected Outer Mongolia, and reported road-building machinery had been sent there by the Japanese.

Rehabilitation Now

VANCOUVER (CP)—Immediate establishment of a rehabilitation scheme for first Great War veterans would be a test for rehabilitating thousands of men to be released from the services and industry after the war, says the provincial command of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada in a resolution urging adoption of the plan.

The resolution recommends land settlement be launched now for first Great War veterans.

Lovat's Troops Bayonet Gunners Destroy Battery

By ROSS MUNRO

LONDON (CP)—Units of two infantry regiments—the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Essex Scottish of Windsor, Ont.—with the Calgary Tank Regiment carried the main attack on the Dieppe raid Wednesday night into the town itself and battled the Germans in the streets to capture the main portions of the town.

Meanwhile British commandos operated with the force and at Varengeville, five miles west of Dieppe, a force led by Lord Lovat captured and destroyed a battery of six six-inch howitzers.

Lord Lovat's commando unit killed the gun crew with bayonets and destroyed the howitzers. Maj. Gen. J. H. Roberts, senior ranking officer of the expedition, commanded the Canadians. Other high-ranking Canadians in the raid were Brig. Sherwood Lett of Vancouver, and Brig. W. S. Southam of Toronto.

After a tremendous naval bombardment and aerial bombing of the promenade area by the sea, these units landed on the beach in front of the town and stormed Nazi-held buildings, barricades and strong points.

On the flank, units of the South Saskatchewan regiment and the Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg landed at Pourville, two miles west of Dieppe, and the Royal Regiment of Toronto went in at Puits, one mile east of the port. Units of the Fusiliers, Mount Royal, a French-Canadian battalion, were floating reserves and finally were sent into Dieppe.

GAIN OBJECTIVES

By this operation, the Canadians carried out the underlying objective of the raid which was to test German defences on the coast and obtain information about them. It was left with many parts of the town wrecked and burning and, as the raid-fleet sailed from England, I could see from the boat I occupied with an attack force a pall of smoke hanging over the port.

Several strong gun positions and batteries of coastal artillery were destroyed and a radio-finding station was smashed. Hundreds of Germans were killed. The Nazis themselves admitted 400 killed and wounded.

The Canadians brought back a number of German prisoners. While the preliminary attacks were being made, the main raid force under Gen. Roberts was crossing the channel in a flotilla that included a large number of ships of all types, including giant tank-leading craft that looked like Great Lakes oil freighters. These craft were being used for the first time to transport tanks at sea on combined operations.

Destroyers, motor launches and motor gun-boats screened the assault craft during the whole voyage. This force was trained for five weeks last June and early July on combined operations of this type and carried out the recent raid and invasion manoeuvres with Canadian troops.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Brig. Sherwood Lett, M.C., who took part in Wednesday's commando raid upon Dieppe, in civil life was one of Vancouver's outstanding lawyers. He has had many years of military training, including experience in the field.

From 1916 to 1919 he served as captain and adjutant of the 46th Battalion, C.E.F., and with the headquarters signals staff of the 5th Reserve Brigade, C.E.F.

Cholera Epidemic In Jap-held China

CHUNGKING (AP)—The Chinese Central News reported today that between 3,000 and 4,000 persons had died of cholera in Japanese-occupied Tanyueh, in western Yunnan province, where Japanese forces penetrated south-western China after their conquest of Burma.

Central News said Japanese troops were among the victims of the epidemic.

Eyewitness of Raid Saw Canadian Troops Fight, Die as Heroes

Ross Munro, 28-year-old Canadian Press war correspondent, landed in France with the Canadian-led commando forces Wednesday, the first Canadian newspaperman to step on European soil with a commando. Munro was the only newspaperman with the Canadian forces raiding Spitbergen a year ago; on the recent manoeuvre-workout for this assault on Dieppe he was along. His full-time job is "covering" the Canadian troops in Britain. Here is his story.

By ROSS MUNRO
(Copyright—1942—by the Canadian Press.)

WITH THE CANADIAN RAIDING FORCE AT DIEPPE (CP)—For eight raging hours, under intense Nazi fire from dawn into a sweltering afternoon, I watched Canadian troops fight the blazing, bloody battle of Dieppe.

I saw them go through the biggest of the war's raiding operations in wild scenes that crowded helter skelter one upon another in crazy sequence.

There was a furious attack by German E-boats while the Canadians moved in on Dieppe's beaches, landing by dawn's half-light.

When the Canadian battalions stormed through the flashing inferno of Nazi defences, belching guns of huge tanks rolling into the fight, I spent the grimmest 20 minutes of my life with one unit when a rain of German machine-gun fire wounded half the men in our boat and only a miracle saved us from annihilation.

Stukas Swoop Low To Dive-bomb Ships

A few hours later there was the spine-chilling experience of a dive-bombing attack by seven Stukas, the dreaded Nazi aircraft that spotted out the small assault landing craft waiting off-shore to re-embark the fighting men.

Our boat was thrown about like a toy by their seven screeching bombs that plunged into the water around us and exploded in gigantic cascades.

There was the lashing fire of machine-gunning from other Nazi aircraft and the thunder of anti-aircraft fire that sent them hustling off.

Over our heads in the blue, cloud-flecked French sky were fought the greatest air engagements since the Battle of Britain, dogfights carried on to the dizzy accompaniment of planes exploding in the air, diving down flaming, some plummeting into the sea from thousands of feet.

Hour after hour guns of the supporting warships growled salvoes at targets ashore where by now our tanks also were in violent action.

Unearthly noises rumbled up and down the French coast, shrouded for miles in smoke-screens covering the fleet.

Canadians Fight At Close Quarters

There was heroism at sea and in the skies in those hours but the hell-spot was ashore, where the Canadians fought at close quarters with the Nazis. They fought to the end, where they had to, and showed courage and daring.

They attacked the Dieppe arsenal of the coastal defence. They left Dieppe silent and afire, its ruins and its dead under a shroud of smoke.

The operation against Dieppe started from a British port Tuesday evening. I boarded a ship which also carried the Royal Regiment of Toronto. It was 7 o'clock and only then were we told that Dieppe was our destination.

The Royals took it coolly enough. They had been trained with the rest of the force for several months on combined operations for just such a job. Maps, mosaics and photographs of Dieppe were issued and the boat put to sea with the other ships of the raiding fleet, the troops were briefed in their tasks.

It was a muggy night but the sky was clear. The sea was calm. It was combined-operations weather.

Below deck the men sat around cleaning weapons, fusing grenades and loading the magazines of Stens, Tommy-guns and Brens.

In darkness the flotilla formed, shadowy tank landing craft that looked like oil tankers, a score of small assault boats, destroyers, gunboats, motor launches and torpedo boats.

A few officers in the raiding party drank a beer with the ship's captain and chatted about everything but the operation. We had a snack of bully beef, bread and butter, and tea, and then went over the side into assault craft.

After leaving the mother ships, our flotilla or little craft took positions in line astern. The Royals were to land at points, one mile east of Dieppe and establish themselves in that flanking area.

Just as we were pushing away from the mother ship, an old British tank whispered to us: "Cheerio laddies, the best of luck, give me a bellicking."

Nobody Nervous As Battle Nears

It was pleasant in the open assault boats. Nobody seemed particularly nervous about the coming business, though it was to be the Canadians' first time in action.

I made myself think in terms of manoeuvres, exercises in which I had taken part with these men in preparation for this night.

I had about convinced myself that this was another of those familiar exercises when at 4.10 a.m., about 50 minutes before we were due to hit the beach, a flare arched over the Channel.

Tracer bullets followed quickly, long green and red streaks marking their path. They were too close for comfort.

"E-boats," announced a sailor. The atmosphere suddenly tensed. Wide-awake men tightened their grip on their weapons.

A sailor hoisted a Lewis gun into place and cocked it.

Our boats slipped steadily through the quiet waters. The motor was hardly audible.

Then the E-boats appeared, close by off to one side. They opened up with lead that bounced bright red off one or two of our boats. Fire now came from several angles.

It was the first time most of us ever had been under direct enemy fire. We flattened against the armor-plating of our craft. The E-boats kept up a running attack for 20 minutes and the night became alive with streaking tracers. It occurred to me it was awkward to be travelling toward the Germans, with other Germans hanging on our heels.

3 Canadian Units Land on Main Beach

Over on our right I could see another fleet of raiding craft bearing men of the Essex Scottish, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Calgary Tank Regiment to the main beach in front of Dieppe.

There was a great roar as a concentration of high explosive and smoke bombs landed on the east headland by the harbor with a blinding flash that seemed half a mile long. Black smoke billowed out and turned white as it curled along over the sea to conceal our landing from the shore defences.

Crouched low, the Royals gave their webbing last-minute hitches. Faces were taut, jaws firm. We knew that this wouldn't be any party.

We could see destroyers and gunboats creeping up behind the attack flotillas racing for the main beach. The flame and peal of artillery told us that the naval bombardment of the town had opened. The navy kept up its torrent of shells into Dieppe as we sped for shore.

But the Royal Navy took care of our unwanted traveling companions. Destroyers popped up with a barrage that sent the E-boats scurrying off like sea rats.

Aircraft drummed overhead by this time, heading for the south. They were the first of the bombers for Dieppe, and in a few minutes great crumps shook the French Channel shore as they unloaded their bombs on the port.

Nazi anti-aircraft defence barked at the skies and a haphazard pattern of tracer and flak criss-crossed a horizon showing the first streaks of dawn.

They made a brilliant chandelier over Dieppe. Two searchlights probed for bombers dodging anti-aircraft fire. Other bombers went in, squadron after squadron.

Flashes of bomb explosions in the town to which we had crept within two miles revealed a concrete jetty at the harbor entrance.

Anti-aircraft fire was heaviest from the cliff-tops on either side of the town.

Already some of the Royals were landing at Puits as we headed for the beach at the base of a slope leading from the shore into a break between the cliffs.

To one side fighter planes hopped in at sea level to blast with cannon and machine guns the hotels and buildings full of Germans on the Dieppe esplanade.

Dawn was breaking. The battle of Dieppe got hotter.

We were to land in a matter of minutes. Through smoke-layers I looked up at the white cliffs, growing higher before us. Anti-aircraft guns up there clattered unceasingly. Machine guns drilled down bullets that clanged against the armor of our boat.

By the time our boat touched the beach the din was at a crescendo. I peered out at the slope lying just in front of us and it was startling to discover it was dotted with the fallen forms of men in battle dress. The Royals ahead of us had been cut down as they stormed the slope. It came home to me only then that every one of those men had gone down under the bullets of the enemy at the top of the incline.

Curtain of Lead Surrounds Boat

Vicious bursts of yellow tracers from the machine guns made a veritable curtain about our boats. The Royals beside me fired back with everything they had. One Canadian blazed away with an anti-tank rifle.

The Germans held a couple of houses near the top of the slope and occupied some strong pill-boxes. From their high level they were able to pour fire into some boats, ours among them.

Several bursts from machine guns struck men in the middle of our craft. The boat's ramp was lowered to permit the men with me to get ashore, but German fire caught those who tried to make it.

The remainder crouched inside, protected by armor and pouring return fire at the Nazis. The Canadians' shooting was dead-on and half a dozen men in steel helmets and field grey uniforms toppled from windows to the ground.

Other Germans made the mistake of trying to change their positions only to be caught when

Chile, Argentina Express Alarm; Veer From Axis

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—All Germans except diplomats who had embarked on the exchange ships Bage and Cuyaba were ordered held as hostages today by President Getulio Vargas shortly after the sinking of the sixth Brazilian ship in recent days was announced.

The ships already were filled with German nationals, ready to sail for Lisbon in exchange for Brazilian nationals. The voyages had been postponed earlier in the week when a crisis arose over the sinking of five Brazilian ships by Axis submarines, claiming the lives of perhaps 600 persons including Brazilian troops.

The sixth U-boat victim, announced today, was the coastal steamer Jacar.

It was sent to the bottom a few miles off the northeast coast after all aboard were ordered off in lifeboats.

One high official of the government navigation line declared today that the sinkings, which brought Brazil into undeclared conflict with the Axis, were the result of "brazen operation of Nazi spies who informed on planned troop movements."

CHILE PROTESTS

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The Chilean government, the only American government except Argentina which still maintains diplomatic relations with the Axis, sent an "energetic protest" to Germany Wednesday night against the sinking of five Brazilian ships.

ARGENTINA DOUBTFUL

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Socialist Deputy Nicolas Repetto told the foreign affairs committee of the chamber Wednesday that sinkings of Brazilian ships would move Argentina to "reconsider its attitude toward war which now has come to our gates."

sighted by Royal sharpshooters armed with Brens.

Caught by this unexpectedly intense Nazi fire, the Canadians fought a heroic battle from those craft that were still nosed up on the beach.

I lay behind a flimsy bit of armor plating and heavy calibre bullets cut through it a couple of feet above my head.

An officer sitting next to me was firing a Sten gun. He got off a magazine and a half, killed at least one Nazi, and then was hit in the head. He fell forward, bleeding profusely.

A sailor next to him was wounded in the neck and another got a bullet through the shoulder. Those around the injured tied them up with field dressings. The fire was murderous now and the Canadians' fire-power was being reduced by casualties.

There were eight or 10 in our boat who had been hit and a landing here seemed impossible. The naval officer with us decided to get the boat off the beach. On manoeuvres there were times when it was a difficult task to do it quickly, but by a miracle it slid off and we eased away from the hellish fire with nerve-wracking slowness.

Finally we got ashore for a few minutes right in front of the Dieppe esplanade. The smoke screen was so thick, though, that one could not see much of the town and we took off again. The area in front of the town looked like a first Great War battlefield, with broken buildings gutted or burning in all sections.

By 10 a.m. the Canadians, many of their actions led by tanks, seemed to have the town fairly well under control and to have stabilized the situation on the beaches.

At noon final re-embarkation of the troops was under way as the force was taken off the main beach.

With another smoke screen blanketing the raided town, the fleet turned for England. A German aircraft marred the departure and the navy gave some coastal installations another bump with his heavy guns for good measure.

British planes—fighters and bombers—were swarming south to France again in a steady stream with more packages for the Germans.

Tomato a Vegetable, No Sugar for Canning

The tomato is a vegetable. At least the tomato is a vegetable in so far as sugar ration officers of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are concerned with it. And since the tomato is a vegetable, no extra sugar is available for canning of tomatoes.

The old question of whether a tomato was a fruit or vegetable caused a minor headache for ration officers a few weeks ago and local officers kept the wires to Ottawa hot with questions of what to do.

The ration headquarters told local officers extra sugar would be available for canning fruits but only coupon sugar would be available for canning vegetables. But were tomatoes fruits or vegetables?

Prince George Route Best Inlet to Alaska

Northern British Columbia stands upon the brink of development "undreamed of before the war," Premier John Hart said today in an interview following his return from Edmonton where he took part in a conference discussing possible railway routes to Alaska.

Mr. Hart said he and public works and engineering officials attended the Edmonton meeting "to explain advantages" of the British Columbia route to United States army officers now making an investigation. He said he expected a decision regarding a railway to the north would be announced by the United States within a month.

American officers attending the conference included Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of service of supply of the U.S. army. Representatives of the Canadian National Railways and the Alberta government attended, the latter to advocate construction of ration officers in Ottawa said they had taken cognizance of the fact that botanists insist the tomato is a fruit, but so far as they were concerned it is a vegetable.

a route that would link up with Northern Alberta rail facilities.

Mr. Hart declared it was generally conceded the "B" route from Prince George offered the best rail inlet to Alaska.

Asked what role the Pacific Great Eastern Railway might be expected to play if Prince George becomes the southern base for construction of an Alaskan railway, the Premier mentioned the advantages of the Ashcroft-Clinton tie-up which would by-pass steep grades on the Squamish-Clinton section of the P.G.E.

He offered no comment upon the current inspection of the railroad by a Seattle Chamber of Commerce party. The 1,500-mile stretch from Prince George to Fairbanks via Finlay Forks is being surveyed by American engineers.

July Coal Output Under June Total

The B.C. coal output for July, while nearly 18,000 tons above that for July last year, failed to maintain production levels of the preceding month, according to the report of the chief inspector of mines released through the minister of mines office today.

The total for the province was 159,326 tons against 171,315 tons in June and 141,758 tons in July, 1941.

The decrease from the June total was a matter for some concern in view of the increased demand for coal brought about by oil restrictions.

Vancouver Island mines in July produced 66,120 tons against 71,284 tons in June and 46,226 tons in July, 1941.

Comox, which produced 36,810 tons in June, showed a July figure of 29,897, which was 10,000 tons above the July, 1941, figure.

Production in the east Kootenay showed a drop during July both from the similar month last year and June of this year, the figures being 80,652, this year, 86,576 tons in July, 1941, and 86,691 in June.

Col. Tregillus Named O.C. of Engineers

Defence Minister Ralston Wednesday night announced the appointment to Lt. Col. Arthur Louis Tregillus, age 53, of Calgary, as commander of the Royal Canadian Engineers for the 8th Division, Vancouver Island home defence force.

At the same time the appointment of Lt. Col. Norman Clair Sutherland, age 47, of Mount Royal, Que., as R.C.E. commander for the 7th Division, was announced.

Col. Tregillus, born in India and educated at schools in India and England, was appointed lieutenant in the Canadian engineers of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in January, 1918, and served overseas in the first Great War. A civil engineer in peacetime, he was appointed to the 13th Field Company, R.C.E., of the nonpermanent active militia as a lieutenant in 1932, went overseas as a captain in the 9th army troops when the present war started, and then served as officer commanding a training wing overseas with rank of acting lieutenant-colonel.

Col. Sutherland was born in Amherst, N.S., and his first Great War service brought him the Belgian Croix de Guerre.

He was appointed officer commanding a pioneer battalion and went overseas with his unit shortly after the present war started.

The Y.M.C.A. pool will remain closed for several days due to added improvements found necessary.

... about tomatoes

Tomatoes are without question the most versatile of all foods. They have a place at every meal—and they are equally good cooked or uncooked.

Tomatoes are wonderful for adding sparkle to other foods. You'll find that round steak, pork or veal chops and steaks, shoulder lamb chops, and similar cuts of meat are more tender and flavorful when braised in tomato juice or tomato soup instead of water.

This is the season when tomatoes are ripe and juicy and it's a good time to put up tomato juice. The juice is almost as versatile as tomatoes themselves.

Tomato connoisseurs say the best way to enjoy them is to first scald them, then chill, peel, slice, and salt them. But there are many other ways, too.

TOMATO JUICE

10 lbs. tomatoes 2 cups salt
Wash and core but do not peel tomatoes. Cut in eighths. Place in large 5-qt. kettle; add 8 cups water; cover; boil 10 minutes. Put through sieve to remove seeds. Add salt and heat to boiling. Pour into hot sterilized jars or bottles; seal; and pasteurize (directions follow). Makes about 7 pts. juice.

Bottling and Pasteurization
Do not use lids with zinc tops. Wash jars thoroughly; sterilize by placing in boiling water for 10 minutes. Heat juice to 175° F. to 180° F. Pour into hot jars, filling just to 1½ inches from the top to allow room for expansion. Seal at once, according to type of lid. Place hot jars in water which has been heated to 160° F. to 185° F. Stand jars upright on rack; have completely covered with water. Heat water to 175° F. to 185° F. and hold temperature 30 minutes. Do not heat higher than 185° F. Remove immediately from hot water. Test seals for tightness. Let cool undisturbed in place free from draft. When cold, wipe off and store.

Triumph in Air

Dieppe Ablaze; Result Decisive Allied Victory

Drew Middleton of the Associated Press, one of the American newsmen selected to represent the United States press on the Dieppe raid, observed Wednesday's operation from one of the vessels that lay offshore. He was not permitted to land.

Middleton, 28, was accredited to the original British Expeditionary force of this war and spent considerable time with it in France in the early months. He was withdrawn to England just ahead of the troops in the 1940 retreat through Dunkerque.

By DREW MIDDLETON

ABOARD A MOTOR LAUNCH OF THE ROYAL NAVY RETURNING FROM OFF DIEPPE, (AP)—I have just watched the R.A.F. and the Royal Navy smash the German air force in the fiercest and most dramatic air and sea battle of the war in the west.

For seven hours in the blue skies over Dieppe and on the glassy waters of the Channel, Briton and German, airman and seaman, fought for the lives of thousands of Canadian, American, French and British soldiers who scrambled ashore this morning to storm the ancient port of Dieppe.

DECISIVE RESULT

The result was a decisive Allied victory. Its full measure is not 91 aircraft shown down by British pilots and gunners but a long line of landing craft full of weary but triumphant men now passing our ship.

They are homeward bound because of the magnificent job done by the little ships and great seamen of the Royal Navy and the headlong assaults of pilots of the R.A.F.'s and R.C.A.F.'s Spitfires, Mustangs and Hurricanes. This combination broke a German force of at least 500 aircraft seeking to blast the commandos and infantry into submission and sink the armada of landing craft. Since dawn, when two Focke-Wulf 190's darted at us with machine guns and cannon chattering, this tiny craft and every other ship have been bombed and strafed repeatedly and have blazed back at the enemy.

Our motor launch, which is about 100 feet long, left a southern port last night, escorting tank-landing craft. The moon was sinking toward the horizon as England dropped astern and the ghostlike line of ships headed for France and the enemy.

SCORES OF SHIPS

As it grew light we discovered scores of other ships—destroyers, motor gunboats, lighters, assault craft and chasers of the Fighting French navy all converging on Dieppe.

BOMBS PEPPER ST. MALO—Day raiding R.A.F. Douglas bombers blast harbor installations at St. Malo, France, starting many fires. (Passed by censors.)

whistled softly at the sight and said:

"What's that line in Shakespeare about 'Gentlemen of England now ahead?' They ought to see this. It makes you proud."

The first commandos landed as we neared the French coast.

R.A.F. bombers had sneaked across the Channel to hammer German gun positions. Ahead anti-aircraft fire spurted in fountains of red tracer bullets.

Across the water we heard the rumbling crump, crump of big bombs.

"The well-dressed man" will wear a tin-hat from this point," the sub-lieutenant said.

As the light brightened we saw six Spitfires flying high overhead. We were still admiring them when there was a roar of planes to port and two Focke-Wulfs attacked our convoy.

They swept over us with every gun firing, and ours answering theirs. One climbed out of the barrage, a second wavered and slid into the sea.

"Let's go and see the fun," said the captain after the tank transports had run in to landings. We steamed through the smoke and in the early sunlight saw the burning houses of Dieppe and heard the rattle of rifle fire and the chatter of machine guns.

Golfers Turn Over $14,197 to Relief

CHICAGO (AP)—A cheque for $14,197.47 was mailed Wednesday to the United States army emergency relief organization to cover the army's share of profits from the Tam O'Shanter national open and all-American amateur golf tournament played at Tam O'Shanter club, July 20-26.

Army emergency relief received 85 per cent of the net proceeds. George S. May, president of the club, said the other 15 per cent, or $2,505.43, would be donated to the benevolent fund of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Net profits, May said, were $16,702.90. Total income was $84,951.65.

An American record for golf attendance was established when 62,266 spectators attended the two tournaments, which ran concurrently.

May is going ahead with plans for a $20,000 open tournament next July.

U.S. Freezes Film For Movie Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. War Production Board today froze all moving picture film in the hands of manufacturers, effective at 11:59 tonight, and announced controls which will limit the movie industry to the amount of film used last year.

No standard-size, 35-mm film will be available henceforth for commercial and advertising pictures, the board ruled.

The 85-mm. film for still cameras—the "candid camera" type—was not covered by the order. A new order affecting film for amateurs "will be issued shortly."

Wrens' School to Open

GALT, Ont. (CP) — The Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service will establish its first class in Canada at the Ontario Training School for Girls Oct. 1. It was announced today. After taking a probationary four-week training course at the school here recruits will become full-fledged "Wrens" and may be drafted to or may continue training in some specialized branch.

Premier King Issues Call

Every Capable Man, Woman for War Effort Only Very Old, Young And Disabled Exempt

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King Wednesday night announced proposed new measures of control over manpower and womanpower designed to place "all but very old, the very young and the disabled" behind the war effort.

Mr. King, speaking over the national network of the CBC, declared the government's policy was that "every man and woman capable of performing some form of war service should undertake the service for which he or she may be best qualified and which the demands of war require."

To this end he said controls would be exercised so that, "after a fixed period," unemployed persons may be required to accept any work for which there is special need.

Persons seeking employment may do so, under the proposed new control, only with a permit from an employment office, and employers seeking new workers must have similar permission.

Employed persons induced by a national selective service officer to take new employment more directly associated with the war effort, will be entitled to the same right of reinstatement in his previous occupation, at the conclusion of his war work, as those serving in the armed forces.

Not to Go Beyond Minimum Needs

Mr. King said use of manpower for nonwar purposes was essential up to a point but beyond the necessity of meeting minimum requirements it was non-essential.

"The government, accordingly, has decided that nonessential civilian activities should be curtailed or eliminated," he said, and added that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has been directed to take the steps necessary to this end.

He forecast further measures to obtain accurate information on the availability of workers, including registration of women which it has already been indicated would be held next month.

Control will be placed over the help-and-situations-wanted advertisements, and employers will be required to make a return showing all additions to and separations from their staffs as from last April 1.

Mr. King opened his broadcast with a reference to the part played by Canadians in Wednesday's raid on Dieppe, and said "we were proud to hear that our troops had a foremost place in that action."

But he said news of the raid should not destroy "our sense of perspective" and declared that "we have reached one of the gravest hours in history."

He said "The United Nations have not yet begun to win this war... we shall gain nothing by refusing to face the gravity of the situation."

These circumstances brought home the necessity of Canada making the greatest possible contribution to victory. "Every citizen must make his most useful contribution."

Striving Toward Total War Effort

The government had been striving toward "a total effort for total war," and much had been achieved but "we have now come to the time when on all sides, any and every means necessary to the accomplishment of our aims must be employed," he said.

"The government's policy is a positive, not a negative policy. It will be administered without fear or favor and without regard for race or creed or class."

Services of men and women were "imperatively" needed for the armed forces but all could not be employed in the armed forces. It was necessary to maintain as great an army, navy and air force as possible for "a long war."

But men and women were needed to produce the munitions of war and to carry on essential services. It was the government's task to balance the utilization of men and women for these two efforts.

Mr. King said administration of the National Selective Service Act would remain in the hands of the present director, Elliott M. Little, responsible to Labor Minister Mitchell.

For the present the call-up for compulsory military service in Canada would remain the responsibility of the National War Services Department.

"It is planned, in the very near future," he added, "to transfer the task of calling up men for military service to the Director of National Selective Service."

"In anticipation of this transfer there will be close co-ordination between the Department of National War Services and the National Selective Service Administration."

"This will serve to avoid undue dislocation of war industry resulting from the calling of men for military service."

Mr. King said that in the exercise of its "immense powers" over the services of men and women, national selective service might make decisions which would need revision if needless hardship were to be avoided.

National Boards Will Hear Appeals

He added that the National War Services Boards would accordingly be retained to hear appeals from decisions of selective service officers.

Mr. King said "compulsion in itself 'has little or no merit,' but was necessary 'to obtain service from those who otherwise would not be willing to serve.'"

Success of the manpower plan depended upon the wholehearted co-operation of all the citizens of Canada, Mr. King said as he appealed for such support.

"Let it never be said that you favor national selective service for someone else but that you wish to escape it yourself," he said.

"At this time of the world's greatest need I appeal to every man and woman in Canada willingly and cheerfully to accept such control and direction of his or her services as may be required in the national interest."

Here are the important announcements in Mr. King's address:

1. Special surveys and registers of manpower, needed from time to time to provide a clear picture of the situation, "will be made as required."

2. A special registration of womanpower will be undertaken "shortly." (Previously it had been said officially that September is the likely month for this survey.)

3. In the near future, "employers will be asked to report all additions to and separations from their staffs since April 1."

Day Nurseries To Care for Babies

4. To help safeguard the welfare of families affected by employment of additional women in industry to replace men for heavier tasks, day nurseries are being established in co-operation with the provincial authorities in Ontario and Quebec, and other welfare activities are being "vigorously developed."

5. The government has decided that "nonessential" civilian activities should be curtailed or eliminated and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has been instructed to put this policy into effect "by such measures as appear necessary for the purpose."

6. Besides these restrictions and eventual eliminations, measures will be taken to ensure that minimum essential needs are satisfied by the use of the least possible amounts of manpower, materials, machinery, fuel, power and transportation.

7. Labor training will be continued "on a growing scale" to help overcome the shortage of skilled workers.

8. Provision of housing, the reconditioning of the physically unfit, the maintenance of health standards and the organization of personnel management are being promoted by the government.

9. Much more complete control and direction of employment now is necessary.

No Firing, Hiring Without Authority

10. Apart from a few common-sense exceptions, no employer will be permitted to lay off any employee, and no employees will be permitted to quit his employment, without giving "reasonable notice in writing." A copy of the notice will have to be provided to the nearest employment office.

11. No employer will be permitted to interview or engage any applicant who has not obtained a permit from an employment office, and permission to seek employment may be restricted "to a given locality, industry, occupation or establishment."

12. "Control" will be established over help wanted and situation wanted advertisements.

13. After a fixed period, unemployed persons may be required to accept any available suitable work, and persons employed less than full-time may be required to transfer to available, full-time suitable work of which there is special need—work of "high labor priority."

14. Any employed person who is induced by a national selective service officer to accept a new and more vital war job will be entitled upon termination of that essential work to reinstatement in his previous position.

No Caucasus Oil For 6 Months

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—Six months or more—that's how long Hitler will have to wait before he begins to get much oil out of the Russian Caucasus—if he conquers those precious fields.

He may have to wait considerably longer before he can get the fields back into anything like full production.

Under peacetime schedule Americans would need a minimum of one year to restore the Caucasus fields after the Russians had devastated them.

"Hitler may be able to cut the American record. He has had apparently a full year to get ready. Nevertheless his difficulties are amazingly complicated."

These difficulties are outlined by Dr. Gustave Egloff, director of research, Universal Oil Products Company. His estimate for full restoration of the Caucasus fields is one year at American rates.

"The Caucasus," he said, "is estimated to be producing something like 560,000 barrels of oil a day, 85 per cent of the Russian production."

FEW SHALLOW WELLS
"There are 1,300 miles of pipeline in the Caucasus. The wells range roughly between 2,500 and 10,000 feet in depth. There is relatively little shallow oil production."

"Germany has an enormous problem in rehabilitating the Caucasus oil industry, if and when it falls into Germany's hands."

"One problem is in designing plants. Two, fabricating materials. Three, shipping the materials to the Caucasus. Four, erecting and operating the plants."

2,000 AMERICANS JOIN OWN FORCES

OTTAWA (CP)—An exchange of notes between Canada and the United States made public Wednesday night by the external affairs department disclosed that more than 2,000 United States citizens formerly serving in the Canadian armed forces have transferred to the United States armed forces under a military transfer agreement between the two countries drawn up last March.

Transfers under the agreement, which accords the same right to Canadians serving in the United States forces, now are "virtually complete," the notes disclosed.

The Canadian note, dated July 16, was addressed to State Secretary Cordell Hull and signed by Hon. Leighton G. McCarthy, Canadian Minister in Washington.

In his reply, Mr. Hull said: "... I should appreciate your adding my personal view that these young men who have now returned to serve in the American forces will constitute a group of ambassadors of goodwill to spread through the United States the story of Canada's great contribution to the common war effort."

Air Minister Power, in a message to Prime Minister Mackenzie King quoted in the Canadian note, expressed appreciation to "those American citizens who early in the war came to our assistance and, of their volition, volunteered for service in the initial organization and operation of the British Commonwealth air training plan."

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Oscar Grunow of Dallas, Texas, today was elected international president of the Y's men's clubs in annual convention here.

Letters to Editor

Correspondents are reminded to use one side of the paper only, to write legibly, and to keep their communications within a reasonable length. A short letter, with a point convincingly emphasized, has a better chance of publication than one with so-called platitudes.

SOMEWHAT INVOLVED

In reply to Mr. Sanders may I ask him not to put into my mouth words I never used myself, namely, State Socialism? When I spoke of the latter it was because some of his confused supporters used the term State Capitalism, and some State Socialism, as meaning the same. Also may I point out to them, that socialists are not concerned with how great an education one may have acquired? But he probably missed the most important part of my last letter, namely, "To those who think of this problem against the present background of property interest and national rivalries, it presents overwhelming difficulties."

He quotes Marx and Engels to prove my socialism is all wet. I'll challenge Mr. Sanders to point to any part of my letter and prove it's not in accord with the Marxian philosophy. Have your correspondents never heard of the universal law of change? While it is true Marx spoke of wages and reforms in his early writings, in his later writings he stated that, owing to the rapid development of capitalism—all over the world, they had now become antiquated and out of date.

To the socialist, the Marxian philosophy is merely a guide to action, to be interpreted in the light of conditions which exist at any given time. Mr. Sanders asks, what is my society as a whole but the state? May I point out that under both state and private ownership there is the need of a state which is nothing more, than the organized force of suppression, due to the antagonisms which continually arise between the two classes in society, and to see no undue interference takes place with the present conditions of production.

But when society takes over the means of production and organizes them in the interest of society as a whole, it not only abolishes itself as a proletariat, but abolishes all class distinctions and class antagonisms at the same time—abolishes the state as a state of a class, after which, when representing society as a whole, it renders itself unnecessary.

State interference in one domain after another becomes superfluous and dies out. A government of persons is replaced by an administration of things. Socialist appropriation of the means of production does away with, not only the artificial restrictions of production, but also the destruction of the products that are produced. In short, there is the difference between state ownership or public ownership, and common ownership.

Kaiser Develops Raw Materials

OAKLAND, CALIF. (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser began working today on plans to develop his own raw materials and build huge flying cargo planes in his Pacific coast shipyards.

He expressed confidence he could be in full production within ten months after plans are completed, producing 1,500 airplane engines a month in one yard alone without interfering with ship construction.

"Fundamentally the big problem in any production is raw materials," Kaiser said on his return from Washington where he discussed his revolutionary idea with army, navy and W.P.B. officials. "It's necessary to get the materials out of the ground. That's where we will start in our air cargo program."

Kaiser said he would confer with west coast airplane producers before deciding whether to produce the 70-ton Mars type of cargo carrier, mammoth 200-ton flying ships, or the army's 30-ton C46.

INNOVATION FOR COAST

As far as materials are concerned, his enterprises are producing metals that were never before turned out on the Pacific coast, Kaiser said, and both the variety and quantity can be increased.

"It's my prediction the Pacific coast will outproduce the rest of the nation in magnesium," Kaiser said. "In aluminum we will make a good showing. We've got the steel problem in our teeth now. For the first time in history we will be producing pig iron this year on the coast and steel plate by the first of next year. Ferro-silicon is in production. We will be producing ferro-chrome within six weeks. If the W.P.B. continues to have confidence in the Pacific coast we will soon be producing high strength alloy steel needed in shipbuilding."

Norma Shearer for Wed Former Ski Instructor

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Film actress Norma Shearer and Martin Arrouge, former ski instructor at Sun Valley, Ida., applied today for a marriage license. Arrouge gave his age as 28 and Miss Shearer said she is 36.

Seen together about Hollywood frequently since they met at Sun Valley, the Montreal-born widow of the late film producer Irving Thalberg, and Arrouge had refused comment on recurrent reports that they would be married.

Miss Shearer and her two children, Irving Thalberg Jr., 12, and Katherine, 7, shared equally in the $4,469,013 estate of the producer, who died in 1936. The widow was to receive the income, estimated at $15,000 a year, from her share during her lifetime.

Now for Action

STRIPPED OF ALL ITS VOLUMINOUS detail, which will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Times, Mr. Mackenzie King's radio address last night presented the Canadian people with a vivid outline of the rules and regulations to which they must soon submit if this country's total working power is to be assigned to total war duty. None of the policies which the Prime Minister foreshadowed should cause anybody surprise; various blueprints of the general plan have been issued from time to time. The only valid complaint that could be lodged at this stage is that National Selective Service on its broadest basis should have been put into practical operation long ago. But no resumption of the grumbling process will do any good; what is desirable now is a holiday for words and the translation of policies into effective action.

The totalitarian powers have scored so many successes because their peoples, before the outbreak of war and since, had no choice but to accept every governmental decree that promised them victory. We see the results in Europe and in Asia. Not that Canadians are to be buffeted about from pillar to post by a totalitarian lash; that is not the democratic way; and it would fall ignominiously were it to be applied to people who understand the basic principles on which free governments operate. But it is essential that all of us recognize the gravity of the world situation to which Mr. Mackenzie King referred in his broadcast. Only by meeting this condition with the fullest possible measures to improve, enlarge, and accelerate our share in this global war will the Dominion measure up to the maximum responsibilities it has accepted.

To be sure, there will be dislocations—social, economic, and domestic. Our whole way of life, already slightly disturbed in some relatively unimportant particulars, will be subjected to shocks of which we little dreamed two or three years ago. How can it be otherwise if, as we have so loudly declaimed, Canada must wage her part of the battle for survival in all its totality? The important point to remember as we contemplate the application of a rigid plan of National Selective Service is that there will be no peace for this part of the British Commonwealth, or for any other democratic land, unless we accept the dictum that every hour of misapplied energy in any part of the war effort postpones the day of victory.

Fooling Themselves

SOME GERMANS MAY HAVE BEEN fooled by Nazi propaganda accounts of yesterday's commando raid on Dieppe. But when the German high command tries to dispose of it as an "invasion catastrophe" it is whistling in the dark. It knows, in the first place, that it was a fact-finding experiment which will keep Hitler and his gang worried from now on; that, in the second place, it was another adventure which went strictly according to plan. And the Herr Doktor Goebbels has means of knowing that when the combined United Nations' operation staff announced that the re-embarkation process was only six minutes behind schedule, it meant just that.

At the same time, none of us should assume that the establishment of a second front in enemy-occupied territory is now a foregone conclusion in the near future. Magnificent as was the co-operation of all the arms of the fighting services, official admission that the outstanding success of the venture was the result of intensive preparation over a considerable period of time is a reminder, for example, of what will be necessary for a large-scale operation to be commensurately successful.

On the other hand, the Dieppe raid should discourage the holding of meetings and the passage of resolutions—some of them suspiciously smacking of political flavor—repeating the old "second front" demands. The layman must accept the principle that the army, navy and air experts in charge of such operations know their business. To assume otherwise is to be dangerously foolish. Some radio broadcasters would do well to bear this in mind as they pontificate about everything under the sun.

That Steel Problem

WITH ITS OBJECTIVE A DETERMINED attack on what is now familiarly referred to as the "steel problem," an American mission has gone to Britain to join forces with British executives. It is hoped to stimulate production for war use on a united basis. Our neighbor's Combined Production and Resources Board is hopeful that one of the results will be a return visit by a similar mission from the British Isles.

Those making the Atlantic journey from this side number steel-producing authorities, army, navy and government officials. Specifically, they will study British methods and requirements and investigate means of increasing the quantity of steel needed for the war efforts of the United Nations, plus methods of obtaining maximum efficiency in the use and allocation of the combined productive capacity of the two countries.

That some such joint working arrangement is urgently necessary is borne out by the fact that the capacity of the United States and Britain to make weapons of war out of steel is now greater than their combined capacity to produce this vital basis of war supplies; thus making it necessary that every pound of productive capacity of both countries be used as efficiently as possible so that the greatest number of war machines can be thrown against the enemy.

Some aspects of the problem it is intended to study include: 1. How the steel programs of the two nations can be brought into better balance so that plates, shapes, structural steel and so on will all be produced in the proper ratio. 2. Whether increased production and savings in shipping space can be effected by sending more ingot steel and less finished weapons to Britain or vice versa. 3. What steel products can best be made in the United States and what can best be made in Britain. 4. Which theatres of war should be supplied from Britain and which from the United States to economize on shipping space. 5. Methods used by Britain to collect steel scrap and the use that is made of the scrap. 6. British progress in reducing steel consumption by substitution, simplifying specifications and eliminating wasteful machining operations and means of pooling such information by the two countries. 7. What percentage of British steel production is used, respectively, in war and civilian production.

It is easy to be wise about many aggravated problems at this stage of the conflict. Much depends now upon the willingness and determination of all the United Nations to profit by the mistakes of the past, to recognize that the enemy still has a great deal more of the material sinews of war than he was supposed to have a year ago, or even immediately after Pearl Harbor; and the prodigal use Hitler is making of his oil supplies in his Russian campaign compels one to wonder about the size of his reserves.

War Risk Insurance

THE MEASURE TO PROVIDE WAR risk insurance, in which coastal communities such as Victoria are especially interested, was introduced into Parliament at Ottawa just before the Easter recess. The delay in bringing it into effect has been due to the fact that the House failed to pass the bill until the last day of the session. Reports from Ottawa now are that policies will be on sale early next month.

No announcement has yet been made as to what the premium rates will be. The government has subsidized the plan to the extent of $5,000,000. In addition, it has been decided to give free insurance to a householder up to $3,000 on his house and from $200 to $800 on personal effects, with an added $400 if the householder has a wife, and $100 for each child under 16 years. The insurance will be effected through insurance companies now doing business, and selling will be through regular insurance agents. Back of the companies will stand the government to carry the risk and both companies and agents will operate on a service-at-cost basis. Insurance must be taken out at least 24 hours before it is to be in force. This is to forestall any rush to insure on reports that enemy forces are approaching.

Britain has had a compulsory war insurance plan in force since early in the war. So far the loss ratio has been under 2 per cent. The premium rate there is 2 1/2 per cent, just enough to give a margin to cover overhead. Australia has had a partly compulsory plan in force since the Japanese became an immediate threat. The United States gives no free insurance to householders, but with a subsidy of $1,000,000,000 has established a low rate of 10 cents per $100 on dwellings. Initial demand for policies under the U.S. scheme has far exceeded official estimates. From the volume of inquiries now being made of agents, the indications are that the demand for protection along the coastal areas of Canada will be similarly heavy.

Why Be Squeamish?

FROM TIME TO TIME SOME WRITER or public figure attempts to drum up hatred of the German people. From other quarters come immediate retorts that it is cynical and hard-boiled. The only miracle it refuses to believe in are the possible and, indeed, the probable miracles. One of these is the existence of sea serpents in the Okanagan and Oak Bay. But we need not expect this blind disbelief to continue long. The sea serpents will return triumphantly in due course, when the war is over, when men have time once more to sit down and think about things that don't matter.

For the present we are all concentrating our minds on important things like the war, like the economic system, like the income tax, and the strain is proving too much for most of us, our minds having been made for smaller game. We are trying to imagine new worlds, new systems of society, new economic panaceas, new world orders when we were only built to sit beside the lake in Okanagan, beside the sea in Oak Bay and imagine horrid, coiling creatures in the water.

When the war is over we shall return to our natural level. I have no hesitation in predicting now that the war will not be over a year before great news will come from Okanagan and Oak Bay. Some fellow will see the sea serpents again and they will occupy once more the place which they deserve on the front pages of the newspapers. They will be much more welcome there, much more pleasant, much more interesting than the present occupants, Hitler and his crew. And if such creatures as these can exist why should we doubt for a moment the existence of innocent creatures much more probable?

Parallel Thoughts

NOT A WORD

A FELLOW WRITES in a Vancouver paper protesting against the blackout of sea serpent news. He says he hasn't heard a word for more than a year about the sea serpent of Okanagan Lake or the jolly monster who used to disport himself in the sea off the 19th hole of the Oak Bay Golf Club. No, not a word. It may be that the danger of Japanese submarines has scared our Victoria pet away from Oak Bay, and it may be that the 19th hole has dried up lately, owing to the new excise taxes, but this would not account for the disappearance of the creature who inhabits Okanagan Lake and has been seen by too many reputable citizens to be imaginary.

Perhaps sea serpents cannot live in wartime. Perhaps they belong to an age of innocence now finally passed and beyond recall. Before the war men had time to dally with such things. Now they are too busy with the war or planning a new economic system to pay any attention to anything so interesting as a sea serpent.

It is a great pity. We are drying up the springs of credulity in the human race. We are refusing to believe anything we cannot see ourselves. Our grandfathers took many things on faith, including sea serpents. Even we in our time, three years ago, were sadly shaken in our cynicism by the reports from Okanagan and Oak Bay and many hard-boiled men in Victoria, who had long since ceased to believe anything, used to saunter on the Dallas Road on the chance of seeing a horrid, coiling creature in the water. Now no one searches the sea in any such hope. Our faith in the miraculous has all gone.

MORE MIRACLES

And yet we have witnessed more miracles in our time than any generation for several hundred years. Why, miracles proceed all over the world every day which would have been considered far more fantastic than a whole family of sea serpents before the war—the miracle of Britain, of Russia, of Germany. Moreover, we not only have witnessed miracles without appreciating them, but, paradoxically, while rejecting the idea of miracles, we depend on them.

For months now, for a year at least, the democratic world has hoped for a miracle; has refused to face the obvious facts and preferred to dwell in a realm of fantasy. A cartoon in this newspaper the other day pictured the current state of the public mind very accurately when it showed the Germans and Russians locked in death grips and the other democracies sitting in the bleachers shouting, "We want a miracle! We want a miracle!" We rejected the small notion of a sea serpent, but we are quite willing to believe that a miracle like an early Russian winter, or a blow-up in Germany, will end the war.

Our belief in the miraculous has no bounds. Thus the annihilation of the Allied fleet off Java was first announced to us as a great victory and no one doubted it. When the Japanese landed on the Aleutians—a fact not admitted officially until three weeks later—it was said that the enemy was merely trying to save face after his defeat at Midway, and the impression was left that the Japanese had made a fatal mistake in extending their lines so far and getting themselves into new trouble; just as Hitler, in the words of the British Prime Minister, "missed the bus" when he landed in Norway. And everyone believed, until the last moment, that a miracle would save France and Hongkong and Singapore.

TRIUMPHANT RETURN

So do not try to tell me that this is an age which has rejected the miraculous. It will believe everything while imagining that it is cynical and hard-boiled. The only miracle it refuses to believe in are the possible and, indeed, the probable miracles. One of these is the existence of sea serpents in the Okanagan and Oak Bay. But we need not expect this blind disbelief to continue long. The sea serpents will return triumphantly in due course, when the war is over, when men have time once more to sit down and think about things that don't matter.

For the present we are all concentrating our minds on important things like the war, like the economic system, like the income tax, and the strain is proving too much for most of us, our minds having been made for smaller game. We are trying to imagine new worlds, new systems of society, new economic panaceas, new world orders when we were only built to sit beside the lake in Okanagan, beside the sea in Oak Bay and imagine horrid, coiling creatures in the water.

When the war is over we shall return to our natural level. I have no hesitation in predicting now that the war will not be over a year before great news will come from Okanagan and Oak Bay. Some fellow will see the sea serpents again and they will occupy once more the place which they deserve on the front pages of the newspapers. Ghost of Munich

From New York Herald Tribune

An uneasy ghost stirred in the House of Commons the other day; the ghost of a day when men still hoped that war might somehow, anyhow, be averted; when the pledged word of Nazi Germany still had some credence in the world; when it was still thought that the Axis powers could be "satiated" by concessions. It was the ghost of Munich, and Anthony Eden sought to exorcise it with the statement that Great Britain and Czechoslovakia have exchanged notes, formally declaring the Munich agreement of no effect, so far as the boundaries of the latter state are concerned.

Much blood has been spilled in the world since the Munich pact was signed on Sept. 30, 1938. The Nazi road to conquest has been littered with the scraps of discarded treaties. Yet somehow the memories of that great crisis, just four years ago, are strangely moving. One can hear again Premier Daladier warning that France would go to war if Czechoslovakia were attacked; Mussolini smugly asserting that "Germany has given a supreme proof of moderation"; a raucous voice from Berlin's Sportpalast shouting abuse of Benes, interspersed with assurances that when the Sudetenland question was solved "there is for Germany no further territorial problem in Europe. . . . We want no Czechs!" There is a transfused Chamberlain, on the balcony of No. 10 Downing Street, talking of "peace with honor," "peace for our time," while weeping, angry crowds in the streets of betrayed Prague shouted: "We want to fight!" Could they see, Lidge in the handwriting at Munich?

Hitler cynically smashed the pact of Munich. It was good to sweep, as the British have done, whatever sorry diplomatic remains of Munich still exist into the discard. A treaty in which the faith was all on one side, the force on the other, should not be permitted to complicate the peace that is to come. But the ghost of Munich will not and should not down; it should haunt the statesmen of the future with its grim reminder that peace is indivisible; that it cannot be purchased; that it cannot be built on good intentions alone—or on fear. Peace demands courage and resolution if it is not to lead to war or to the submission that is worse than war.

LIEUTENANT OR MISTER?

From Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

We have received a letter from a retired soldier who apparently spends his leisure studying our social column and who objects to the use of the title "Lieutenant" in connection with junior army officers. He claims that to do so is to leave the impression that the officer referred to is either in the Navy or in the Royal Air Force. In the Army, he points out, an officer holding the rank of "Lieutenant" should be described as "mister" and adds that he is thus addressed by privates and noncommissioned officers.

Of course, the rank of Lieutenant exists in the army, and commissions are issued accordingly. On the other hand, the custom undeniably is as our correspondent has stated and we would be only too glad to do as he suggests but for the fact that we find ourselves—as an editor so frequently does—"between the devil and the deep sea."

Ours is a "citizens' army" here in Canada, very largely recruited from men who had no thought of a military career and who know little or nothing of the niceties of military custom and tradition. At all events, if they have such knowledge, many of their friends and relatives apparently have not. They are proud of Willie's rank as lieutenant, and when we try to refer to him as "mister" they take umbrage at the fancied slight.

Consequently, as this paper is not a military journal and as it has many other ways of offending its readers involuntarily, we must stick to Lieutenant until such time as our old soldiers have drilled the public into the traditional way.

SENATORS' SPECIAL DELIGHT

From L'Action Catholique, Quebec

What a pity it is to see our legislators busy on divorce matters when there are so many other urgent and complicated matters to claim their attention. It is even more distressing to think that some of them take such delight in the evidence arising from divorce applications. That is what happened, at least once, judging from the report of a sitting of the senatorial committee on divorce which the Rev. Mr. Hansell, M.P. for MacLeod, Alberta, quoted in the House of Commons recently.

A short debate took place on the last bills of divorce coming to the House of Commons and some very sensible comments were made by Mr. Hansell, aforementioned. Mr. Wilfrid Lacroix, M.P. for Quebec-Montmorency, and Mr. Maurice Lalonde, member

RENTAL OFFICIAL TO HEAR APPEALS

OTTAWA (CP)—Judge T. H. Barton of Toronto, deputy administrator of rental appeals for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board since last December, has been appointed administrator and will adjudicate upon all appeals from decisions of country judges or other local rental committees.

the prices board announced Wednesday night. Justice J. D. Hyndman who was appointed rental administrator last October and subsequently administrator of rental appeals, has relinquished his duties with the board to give his full time as chairman of the advisory committee to the salaries controller in the income tax division of the Department of National Revenue. Mr. Justice Hyndman, formerly a member of the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta, resigned from the bench in 1931 to become president of the pension appeal court of Canada, serving on that body in Ottawa for nine years. Prior to appointment as rental administrator he was a commissioner for the hearing of appeals by interned aliens.

Evidence Against Green Completed

Leslie "Bud" Green was remanded for a week after preliminary hearing in Provincial Court, Wednesday, on a manslaughter charge. Magistrate Henry C. Hall stating that he did not feel warranted in committing the case for trial. He told the court that, next Wednesday, he would probably bind Green over to attend the assizes if an indictment were preferred against him by the Attorney General.

NO PROOF

Green was charged with manslaughter following an accident on the Malahat highway on the evening of July 24, when his car plunged off the road and fell 350 feet, killing Peter Campbell, 1050 Falmouth Road.

The magistrate pointed out, as he announced his action, that the Crown had brought in no evidence to prove that Green showed wilful misconduct while driving. Thomas Jones, a passenger in the Green car, who leapt out as the auto plunged off the road, told the court that Green's car was going at 30 to 35 miles an hour when the accident occurred. Cpl. John Henry of the Duncan detachment of the Provincial Police, had said

Prisoner Trade Will Continue

OTTAWA (CP)—An External Affairs Department spokesman said Wednesday night it is expected the agreement between Canada and Japan for exchanging nationals will continue "indefinitely."

He was commenting on a statement made in Vancouver by F. P. Bernard, honorary vice-consul for Spain, that Japan has agreed to give safe passage to another liner exchanging war prisoners held by the two countries.

The department official said Mr. Bernard obviously was referring to the Swedish liner Gripsholm, which is expected to arrive at New York next Tuesday with 1,451 western hemisphere nationals, approximately 65 of whom are Canadians.

SPEED LIMITED

"We are trying to get Canadians home from the east as fast as possible," the official said, "but the speed of the exchange is limited by the fact that we share the exchange ship (Gripsholm) with a lot of other countries."

Under the repatriation agreement, Canadians in the Far East are brought to Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, aboard the Italian steamship Conte Verde and the Japanese liner Asama Maru. There they are picked up by the Gripsholm and returned home.

The official said it is hoped space may be found for more than 65 Canadians on the Gripsholm's next return voyage. Each round trip takes about two and a half months and thus it will be some time before the exchange is completed, he said.

Including prisoners of war, Canadians in the Far East number "some thousands."

2 Nazi Prisoners Caught in Ontario
SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—The two German prisoners of war who escaped from a northern Ontario internment camp Saturday, were captured late Wednesday night by Ontario Provincial Police at Saube crossing, about seven and a half miles east of Thessalon, Ont.

The two men, Hans Kibart, 26, and Walter Gloeckner, 25, were walking on the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks towards Sault Ste. Marie when they were apprehended. They offered no resistance.

864,000 Beer Glasses
TORONTO (CP)—Reduction of the contents of a glass of beer from nine and a half to nine ounces will mean the need of about 864,000 more beer glasses in Ontario beverage rooms.

LONDON (CP)—Farmers and farm workers of England and Wales have by voluntary levies contributed $4,500,000 to the Red Cross in two years.

GYLLENSEPZ-CHARLEBOIS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 10.30 this morning by Rt. Rev. John C. Cody, Bishop of Victoria, at the Bishop's House, View Street, between Josephine Marie, eldest daughter of Mrs. A. L. Charlebois, 1515 Camosun Street, and the late Mr. Charlebois, and Gunnar Gyllenspez, son of Mr. J. O. Gyllenspez, Stockholm, Sweden, and the late Mrs. Gyllenspez.

The bride was given away by her mother, and wore a navy blue ensemble with white trim, a white off-the-face hat, and white accessories. Mrs. H. E. Sorsberg was the only attendant and wore a royal blue frock with white accessories. The bride wore a corsage bouquet of orchid gladioli and heather, and Mrs. Sorsberg's flowers were sweet peas. Mr. H. E. Sorsberg supported the groom.

A reception for the immediate family was held at the home of the bride's mother, where the wedding cake stood in the centre of a lace-covered table, complimented with white tapers and vases of summer flowers. After a honeymoon spent on the mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Gyllenspez will make their home at Keatings.

JOHNSON-ADAMSON TRENT-BROWN

Two nurses were brides in a double wedding solemnized at Knox Presbyterian Church, Port Alberni, Saturday evening by Rev. McLellan, when Mary Elizabeth Adamson, R.N., only daughter of Pte. George M. Adamson, of Camp Borden, and Mrs. Adamson of Craik, Sask., became the bride of Ralph (Sam) Johnson, son of Mr. Eric Johnson and the late Mrs. Johnson of Edmonton, Alta.

The bride, a graduate of the 1940 class of Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, made a radiant picture as she entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Arthur Adamson, of Victoria. She chose a wild-rose crepe afternoon gown with white accessories. A corsage of pink and white sweetheart rosebuds and sweet peas completed the costume.

After a week-end spent at Klitsa Lodge, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for Calgary and Craik, Sask.

Exchanging nuptials at the same time were Francis Elizabeth Brown, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown of Penticton, B.C., and Mr. Fredrick Alfred Trent, son of Mrs. J. Trent and the late Mr. Trent, of New Westminster, B.C.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. H. M. McLeod of Franklin River, was in delphinium blue crepe, fashioned on princess lines, with a turban of matching material. She wore a corsage of pink and white sweetheart roses and sweet peas. The bride was a graduate of Acadia University, N.S., and until her marriage was dietitian at the West Coast Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Trent left for their honeymoon at Klitsa Lodge.

The brides and grooms were each other's attendants. Following the marriage a reception was held at the home of the nurses, where Rev. McLellan proposed a toast to the brides.

SAINSBURY-HORNBY

At Christ Church Cathedral Wednesday evening at 8.30, Miss Alice May Hornby and Bombardier Arthur George Sainsbury, 17th Searchlight Battery R.C.A., were united in marriage by Capt. T. L. Rimmer, chaplain. A profusion of midsummer flowers decorated the cathedral and made an effective background for the pretty ceremony. The bride is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Hornby, 3266 Whittier Avenue, and the groom the only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Sainsbury, 837 Broughton Street.

Mr. Hornby gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon cut on flowing lines, with bishop sleeves shirred at the wrists, softly smocked bodice and shirred waistline. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered French net fell from an embroidered heart-shaped coronet, and her only ornament was a gold cross on chain, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of pink Ophelia roses, white carnations and heather.

Mrs. John James as matron of honor wore a floor-length gown of pink sheer with long sleeves and matching hat, carrying a bouquet of white gladioli. Miss Pearl Davidson, in forget-me-not blue tulle and net with contrasting hat, and carrying a bouquet of pink gladioli, and Miss Hazel Dempsey in shell-pink sheer, with soft lace yoke and long sleeves, contrasting hat, and carrying a mauve gladioli, were bridesmaids. Little Louise Hornby, sister of the bride, was a dainty flower girl in a long frock of pink tulle, with a floral wreath in her hair and carrying a Colonial bouquet. Mr. Donald C. Patterson

Loretto Hall Fete Aids Mission Fund

The gardens of Loretto Hall, Belleville Street, were thronged Wednesday afternoon when the Missionary Circle of the Little Flower held its third annual garden party in aid of the mission funds. Mgr. A. G. Baker, vicar-general, opened the affair at 3, telling something of the work being accomplished by the mission and congratulating the Missionary Circle on its efforts. Father Matte, director of the mission, and Father Hart also spoke briefly. Miss Rose Maguire, president, welcomed the many guests.

Chinese sisters of Loretto Hall had charge of the attractive art stall; Mrs. M. O'Connell and Mrs. Milligan had the refreshment table, serving delicious soft drinks, fruit juices and small cakes; the vegetable stall, in charge of Miss Nora O'Connell and Mrs. H. Lineham was in aid of the A.R.P., section 1.

Contests included that in charge of Miss Loretta Lineham, assisted by Bernadette Lineham and Donna Posey; mystery table, convened by Eugene O'Neill; "penny throw" and clock golf, in charge of Billy O'Connell; "introducing Mussolini," in charge of Billy Haley; quoits, W. Boyle and bingo, M. O'Connell. Miss K. O'Connell was in charge of the game.

Fr. Matte, assisted by Theo Marsden, was responsible for the decoration of the grounds. Other priests assisting were Fathers Albury and Gaudette.

Young Married Women May Have to Return to Work

OTTAWA (CP)—The largest source of future labor supply is among married women and many of those under 35 years of age are still skilled in their former occupations, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today in a review of the reserve of labor among Canadian women.

The review said figures indicate there are about 1,200,000 gainfully occupied women at present, of whom more than 6,000 are in the armed forces.

Of 1,227,876 married women from 15 to 44 years, only 48,073 or 3.92 per cent were gainfully occupied in 1931.

The ranks of married women under 35 years of age, not gainfully occupied, which in 1931 numbered 678,876, contain a considerable number of recent workers still skilled in their former occupations.

Of the married women between 15 and 44 in 1931, 533,354 were in rural areas and 696,400 in urban. The family responsibilities of rural married women, coupled with the increasing stringency of the farm labor situation, suggested that few recruits for industrial employment could be obtained from those in rural areas.

FROM URBAN CENTRES

"However, the married women in this age group in urban localities provide a labor pool practically untapped," said the review.

A sample investigation had shown that of 993 women listed as homemakers at national registration in 1940, 87 had acquired wage-earner status by July 1, 1941. This would indicate that of 2,285,000 women listed as homemakers in August, 1940, only from 54,000 to 68,000 had been drawn into the ranks of industrial workers by July 1 last year.

The bureau said the employment of married women was hampered by the fact that as a labor group they were extremely immobile.

In urban localities in 1931 there were 283,444 families of two or more persons without children. Of 922,705 urban families with children, 33 per cent had one child, while 75 per cent had not more than two children. Of the 304,802 families with one child, in only 109,831 cases or 36 per cent of the whole was the child under seven years of age.

MARRIED WORKERS

Means by which married women workers might be made available in urban centres was indicated by the review, which commented that the degree of concentration in the larger urban centres was important.

"Of the 283,444 urban families without children in 1931, 159,373 or 56 per cent were in localities of 30,000 and over, while 58 per cent of the families with one child and 75 per cent of those with two children were similarly situated," said the review.

"It is in these large urban centres that day nurseries, community kitchens, laundries, etc., can be most easily provided."

Single women from 15 to 44 years-of-age in rural areas numbered 381,421 in 1931. The number in urban areas was 633,008.

"While the increasing farm labor shortage exerts considerable pressure to keep young women on the farm, a highly mobile group which can readily shift from one part of the country to another as employment becomes available," said the review.

UNEMPLOYED GROUP

For alleviation of the manpower shortage, interest centred chiefly on the women not gainfully occupied, who would number about 3,300,000. On the basis of 1931 figures, 3,240,663 or 83 per cent of the female population was 10 years of age or over, and of these 1,141,528 were single, 1,868,639 married and 230,220 widowed or divorced.

Young women of from 15 to 34 years of age were most favored by employers, although for certain types of work those in the 35 to 44-year group and even in the 45 to 54-year group were suitable.

Hostess House Party at Sidney

A successful tea party was held Wednesday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. Hostess House at Sidney. About 50 army and air force wives were present, several with their babies and small children, who were looked after by Patricia Dunne in her Girl Guide uniform. At each Hostess House reunion new faces appear, among them faces of English wives who have braved the perils of the Atlantic to be near their husbands. All are made welcome and have a chance of making friends with Canadian wives.

The guests were received by Mrs. J. B. Ellis, senior hostess, and Mrs. F. J. Baker, president of the Hostess House committee, assisted by members of the committee. Mrs. H. Dunne and Mrs. T. G. S. Chambers poured tea. Captain Macintosh, padre of the Canadian Scottish, was also present.

The proceedings were quite informal, but plans were made for occupations and amusements during the coming months. After Mrs. Baker had welcomed the guests, Mrs. Ellis suggested that in addition to first aid and A.R.P. classes for wives, they might also form themselves into a ping pong club to play in mixed tournaments with the men. As another form of exercise, folk dancing was suggested. The idea of a dramatic club was mooted, to begin in a very simple way with charade groups as preliminary practice, working up to something more ambitious by Christmas time.

The Hostess House is growing fast and is liable to bust at the seams if it becomes any more popular than at present. It is hoped that this party is a forerunner of many more.

Daughters of St. George, Princess Patricia Lodge, will hold a social Friday night at 7.30 in S.O.E. Hall, Broad Street. Members are asked not to bring articles for mock auction.

To Entertain R.A.F. From Saskatchewan

During the coming week 20 members of the R.A.F. who are coming to Victoria from North Battleford, Sask., will be entertained by Victoria hostesses. Arrangements have been made for the billeting by the R.A.F. Section of the Auxiliary Service Hospital Committee. The boys are visiting Victoria to take part in a cricket match at Macdonald Park next Tuesday and will be entertained to a dinner at Terry's after the match.

The committee has received several requests recently to procure hospitality for boys coming from other cities and provinces and has been successful in placing them in every instance.

Nazi speakers preaching Germany's cause in Swedish cities had to seek police protection.

The Fidelis Group of Metropolitan W.A. met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. F. Phillips, Central Avenue. Mrs. J. Oakman led the devotional and Mrs. Phillips presided. Plans were made for a joint meeting to be held Sept. 15 with the Amnica Group at the parsonage, and a musical evening was enjoyed with Mrs. J. Oakman and Mrs. F. Phillips contributing solos accompanied by Mrs. H. Carpenter. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Plan a September Vacation Now

By E. L. FORBES

With just two weeks left in the summer of 1942, it is well to remember that September is also a grand month to explore Vancouver Island. If you haven't already taken a few days away from work, you should make up your mind now to get away next month.

There is a definite charm to the countryside in the first month of autumn. The sun is still warm and the days are bright. You can hike and swim and play games just the same as in the middle of summer. It's in the woods and the fields and amongst the flowers that you find a delightful difference. There is a faint haze over the sun that turns everything a faint gold even in the middle of the day. The leaves are tinged with yellow, the blossoms hang in heavy-headed clusters; there is soft dew at night. You sense relaxation even in Nature, and it is good to feel!

By all means, take a September vacation. You'll never regret it!

Razor Blade Sharpening On Glass Called 'Myth'

By JOSEPH H. KRAUS

The old "stunt" of sharpening a razor blade by rubbing it on the inside of a glass tumbler three-quarters full of water has been given another lease of life by stories in the press. But don't be misled. This method does not sharpen a razor blade.

Many people believe that the edge of a safety razor is saw-toothed and that these saw teeth are bent over by use. This, too, is not so.

If you examine a razor blade with the naked eye or with a pocket magnifying glass you could easily convince yourself that it has a saw-tooth edge. Even magnifications up to 200 or 300 diameters seem to fortify this viewpoint. But the saw teeth thus seen are not at the cutting edge of the razor blade; they actually appear approximately 1/500 of an inch in from the cutting edge and are the result of coarse grinding.

When the finely-honed cutting edge is magnified to 3,000 diameters it shows a continuous wavy or scalloped edge with mounds and depressions which are not at all regular. At this magnification a safety razor blade would appear to be 438 feet long, 219 feet wide and more than 2 feet thick at the centre. The mounds and depressions then appear to have approximately the diameter of an ordinary pencil and a half as high or half as deep. At this same magnification an average whisker would be seven inches in diameter.

It is this wavy, scalloped edge with its mounds and depressions which does the cutting.

After a razor blade has been used several times the edges of the mounds and depressions tend to curl over. When they do so the blade "pulls" and makes shaving uncomfortable.

Many years ago when the Gillette safety razor first came into prominence engineers thought that a perfect edge on a razor blade would not turn over as easily. Much money was spent in building honing and polishing machines to produce the most perfect razor blade edge possible at that time. However, when this was finally attained and 50 blades were given out for test it was discovered that they did not cut at all. Obviously, the scallops were essential for keen cutting.

GLASS DULLS BLADE

If the blade is of fairly heavy stock (that is, non-flexible) rubbing it on the inside of a glass will flatten down a few of the turned-over edges. But this treatment does not perform a sharpening or stropping operation. The parts of the blade thus flattened perform no cutting function. On the other hand, when flexible blades are pressed against the sides of a glass the edges do not come in contact with the glass at all, even under very slight pressure. The harder the blade is

It's Dry...that's why
"CANADA DRY"

Quenches Thirst Faster

Give children all the ginger ale they want, but be sure it's the best. For almost fifty years Canada Dry has maintained its fine, wholesome, invigorating quality. Parents and doctors the world over agree Canada Dry is a safe drink for young folks.

*It's really healthful, too, because it's dry—(less sweet). For real refreshment at work, at play, at mealtime, there's nothing quite so good as the original "Canada Dry." The Champagne of Ginger Ales.

pressed the greater is the distance between the cutting edge and the glass itself.

Neither can a razor be stropped on the palm of the hand, as so many people believe, unless a gritty substance, such as carborundum, is first applied to the palm.

SCIENTIFIC RAZOR BLADE CONSERVATION

So, if you want to conserve your razor blades and get more shaves per blade than you are now able to obtain, (and you do not want to go to the trouble of actually stropping the blade, apply a thin layer of vaseline or oil to the cutting edge after you have finished shaving. Better yet, cover the cutting edge with the greased paper in which the razor blade was wrapped originally. (This can be done by folding the paper over the blade without removing the blade from the razor).

Also remember that your razor remains in the bathroom closet or on the shelf for an average of 23 hours and 50 minutes daily. During this period rust tends to form. Rust has a disastrous effect on the finely stropped edge. Furthermore, the bathroom is the one spot in the home where rust will form more quickly than anywhere else because of the moisture constantly present in the air. This is a natural result from washing, baths, showers and evaporation of moisture from towels, etc.

So to get more shavings per blade keep your razor in the hall closet. Annoy it with oil after each shave. Do not waste time with ball-bearing gadgets, palm stropping or glass massaging. None of these methods will sharpen the blade.

A.R.P. Plans Fire, First Aid Changes

Plans for increasing the self-sufficiency of each A.R.P. district in Victoria were discussed at a meeting of district wardens of officers of the auxiliary services held in the City Hall Wednesday night.

On the suggestion of Dr. Richard Felton, city medical health officer, who has charge of A.R.P. medical services, the first aid points in each district will come under the direct control of the district warden rather than the health officer.

Plans to strengthen fire protection facilities located in each district were discussed. Deputy Fire Chief R. Taylor said a campaign was now on to secure recruits for the auxiliary fire service which has charge of substations in each district.

The deputy chief said more pumping equipment could be used since one large fire might involve available equipment, while other fires burned unattended.

Inspector A. H. Bishop, civilian protection officer, suggested a list of available emergency sources of water be made for use in the event of destruction of water mains.

The meeting suggested the water commission take immediate steps to provide an adequate auxiliary source of drinking water in the event of damage to water mains.

LONDON (CP)—Britons have been advised to mark a "Pilsner line" in their baths, keep water at this five-inch level and save 1,000,000 tons of coal a year.

A.Y.P.A. Summer Dance
Drew 250 Guests

The Victoria and District Local Council A.Y.P.A.'s annual summer dance drew a crowd of over 250 young people, and members from the forces to their dance held Tuesday evening at the Crystal Garden.

The R.A.F. orchestra was in attendance under the direction of Geo. Walker, and special vocal arrangements were rendered by "Tangerine" and Mrs. Berna Miller. During the intermission cello and piano duets presented an enjoyable variety to the well-arranged program.

At the close of the evening the convener, Miss Wendy Perkins, thanked the orchestra and those present for making the evening such an enjoyable success. Others on the committee were Len Dixon, Eileen Ellis, and Wilmie Kilby.

SHUCKS! I KNOW
RICE KRISPIE-
EATERS EAST AND WEST WHO ARE
JUST AS HAPPY
AS SHE IS!

We found her... here she is... the happiest housewife in Canada! Says she: "Give all credit to Rice Krispies... they stay so crisp right down to the last spoonful. And they sing such a gay little song when you pour on cream. They make my whole family happy, and I almost have to sing with them, too..."

O.K. for file—Crackle

Breakfast can be the day's "happy" meal at your house, too... tomorrow serve perky, tuneful Rice Krispies. Nothing else like them! See how the whole family goes overboard for them. Eating out? Insist on the individual package with the inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag! "Rice Krispies" is a registered trade mark of Kellogg Company of Canada Limited, for its brand of oven-popped rice.

SO CRISP THEY C-R-A-C-K-L-E IN CREAM!

PACK YOUR MAN
A LUNCH HE CAN WORK ON!

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR!

The food that goes into a lunch box should be good, healthful food... enough to keep a hard-working man at top efficiency to the end of the shift... the right foods to build strength and good health. So don't forget the rules of good nutrition when you pack that box. Get variety into it, too... a good, well-balanced lunch should contain meat or meat substitute, bread (preferably enriched or whole grain), fresh fruit or vegetable, milk in a beverage, soup or dessert and a sweet. One way of getting variety is to use a wide-mouth thermos for good home-made soup... another day, fill it with tasty stew, and slip a paper plate in the pail, or try hot baked beans.

To help you plan good, vitamin-packed lunches the B.C. Electric Home Service Department has published a free booklet, "Dinner and Lunch Meals." Drop in at our Douglas Street store and we'll be glad to give you a copy.

R.C.A.F. 'Demon Squadron' Made Up of Helldivers

By ALLAN NICKLESON
WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP) — It's home again for five helldivers of Canada's famed "Demon Squadron" of Coastal Command. Their invaluable operational experiences on one of the toughest jobs of the war — braving terrific barrages to drop bombs on ships from deck level — will be utilized in their new capacities as instructors.

The five, all squadron "originals," are: Pilot Officers Bob Mullen, D.F.M., Canora, Sask.; John Abbot of Montreal; D. A. Ross of Sherbrooke, Que.; R. A. Conlin of Drumheller, Alta., and Jack Tate of Paris, Ont. They won commissions through deeds of skill and daring.

Around the squadron they call Abbot and Ross the "Heavenly Twins." They enlisted the same day, trained together as pilots, received commissions the same day and now have to travel home together. Mullen is a pilot, while Conlin and Tate are crack air gunners.

Mullen's experiences are typical of other squadron members. He completed 44 operations during which he dropped tons of bombs on Nazi vessels. On one occasion he went out as a "rover" searching for enemy ships through a squall of rain. He sighted a 5,000-ton supply vessel, went into a shallow dive and dropped his bombs. The wireless operator-gunner, P.O. Don Brantner of Rosetown, Sask., saw the ship break in half.

Here's co-ordination for you: Coming back from Essen the gunners of two bombers, Flt-Sgt. Doug Yull of Sudbury, Ont., and Sgt. William Jones of Winnipeg sighted a Nazi fighter which came on Jones' plane from below. Jones warned his pilot, Sgt. Wesley Croft of Windsor, Ont., who veered sharply so that Yull could pour a long burst into the enemy. The Me. 110 fell off and into the range of Jones' rear guns, where it got a "good going over." When last seen the enemy was headed groundward in a steep dive.

Back from "hot-spot" Malta, where they spent four months with an R.A.F. squadron, five Canadian air crew members had nothing but praise for the effectiveness of the air protection there.

They are Flt-Sgt. C. M. Ruggles, navigator from Ottawa; Sgt. C. P. Potter, air gunner of London, Ont.; Sgt. M. R. McCulloch of Edmonton, navigator; Sgt. J. A. Barlow, Wellington, P.E.I. pilot, and Sgt. D. I. Taylor of Musquodoboit, N.S.

Barlow arrived at Malta in a formation of three and his machine was shot down. Crew members were adrift six hours in a dinghy before being rescued.

War Cost Rise Forces Ottawa to Bank Borrowing

TORONTO—The Financial Post reports from Ottawa that the Dominion government has been forced to move back to a secondary line of defence against inflation, by the first of a series of weekly borrowings from Canadian chartered banks.

Sharply mounting war costs compelled the treasury to embark on a new form of "inflationary" bank borrowing—the issuance for the first time in Canada of deposit certificates. The initial amount was $75 millions, with additional loans to be made weekly in future. It is understood that the tentative limit placed on this type of loan for the time being is $500 millions.

The certificates bear interest at 4 per cent and will mature 26 weeks after the issue date. It was stated officially that proceeds of the sale of these certificates would be used to assist in financing war expenditure prior to the next public loan.

Although the total amount of such certificates outstanding may be reduced from time to time after periodic loan campaigns, there is little expectation that these certificates will actually be redeemed so long as costs keep mounting at as rapid a rate as in recent months.

BRITAIN USES PLAN

In Great Britain, this form of "inflationary" borrowing to meet war costs was first resorted to by the British Treasury in July, 1940. Latest available figures show that as at May, 1942, there were outstanding £470.5 millions (something over $2 billions) of these Treasury deposit receipts (as they are called in England).

At the end of January, 1942, the amount outstanding was higher—about $738.5 millions or more than $3.3 billions. In Britain, the receipts are issued weekly to the banks, run for a 6-month term, and bear interest at 1 1/2 per cent.

Speaking in the House of Commons on July 15, Finance Minister Hiley pointed out that there were three ways of borrowing to finance war costs—from the public, from the chartered banks, and from the Bank of Canada. He called borrowing from the Bank of Canada the "most inflationary method of the three." Of borrowing from the chartered banks he stated:

"I go to some bank and ask them to let the government have $100,000 . . . they simply credit the government with $100,000 and the total of the bank deposits of the country have increased by $100,000. In other words, that transaction results in there being in existence $100,000 more new money than if I borrowed from my hon. friend."

"To that extent it is $100,000 more inflationary in its effect than the other method (borrowing from the public)."

"That is the reason why we shy off from borrowing from the chartered banks, why we strictly limit our borrowing from the chartered banks, keep them down to an irreducible minimum."

For the remainder of the fiscal year, the problem of financing a war cost seven times greater than the normal cost of government in Canada is already throwing a tremendous strain on the national economy. Mr. Hiley's inflationary "gap" in terms of the difference between estimated government expenditure and revenue, is something in the nature of $1.8 billion.

So far, the new National War Finance machinery now being set up to raise that money from Canadians has scarcely started to function. Its goal is a loan and saving campaign "at the rate of" $1.8 billion a year but it does not hope to achieve a saving or loan total of that amount by March 31, 1943.

The new deposit certificates (assuming they are issued to the extent of $500 millions) represent therefore what might be termed "residual" borrowing. First, the government borrows and taxes what it can from the Canadian people. It then leans on the chartered banks (rather than on the Bank of Canada) for the rest.

The amount of such borrowings might be said to be a measure of the inadequacy of government fiscal measures rather than reflecting a "failure" in fiscal policy.

The degree to which present bank borrowings of between $400 and $500 millions may be described as inflationary, depends in large measure on the relation of this amount (and of current new borrowings) to government financing as a whole.

Between March, 1939, and March, 1942, total governmental expenditure in Canada has been approximately $3.8 billions against which about $2.9 billions had been collected in taxes and revenue, leaving a deficit of about $900 millions. Another $1.7 billion had been subscribed through sale of war savings certificates and in the first and second Victory Loan campaigns.

Allowing for the difference in cash balance on hand at the end of 1942 (nearly $700 millions) it will be seen that Canada had in that period more than balanced her accounts without resort to bank borrowing.

The "accommodation" of $400 millions from the banks in the first two and a half years of war and at a time when total bank deposits and business turnover were rising rapidly, can have had little, if any inflationary significance.

British Firemen To Visit City

Five British firemen now touring the continent will visit Victoria during the latter part of September, city fire wardens were informed at a meeting Wednesday.

Plans for their entertainment are being made by Fire Chief Alex Munroe.

The chief was instructed to represent the city at the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs' Association convention in Seattle this week, and Deputy Chief Robert Taylor was authorized to be Victoria's delegate at the B.C. Fire Chiefs' Association convention at New Westminster Sept. 8.

The wardens called for the purchase of 12 fire helmets, 12 coats, three five-gallon pump cans and two fog nozzles. Plans to renew the fire alarm cable to the Yates Street hall, for which provision was made in the estimates, would be implemented, Alderman Archie Wills, chairman, said.

Shawnigan Siren Test

A test of the air raid warning siren installed at the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Hall, Shawnigan Lake, will be carried out Friday afternoon at 2. In order to test the range and efficiency of the warning siren, residents of the Malahat-Shawnigan district are requested by the A.R.P. committee to inform their district wardens if the warning is clearly heard in their vicinity. It is hoped to have the siren erected at an early date in the Mill Bay area. Government priorities on essential metals have somewhat delayed the arrival of the equipment.

An additional supply of stirrup pumps have been received and issued in this district. The Provincial Civilian Advisory Council has also issued a forestry pumper and hose for fire protection purposes. Further fire equipment is expected and the local committee hope to have a properly equipped fire truck for protection of the district at an early date.

David B. Keir, chief warden, recently returned from a two-weeks' course of instruction on A.R.P. duties at Vancouver.

Named to Sub-Committee

Inspector A. H. Bishop, civilian protection officer, Wednesday was appointed to subcommittee of the Advisory Council, Provincial Civilian Protection Committee.

The inspector will go to Vancouver Monday for a meeting of the committee which advises on warden and auxiliary police services. Insptr. Bishop is one of two new members added to the committee.

EVERY INDICATION points to a third straight win for United Services tonight in their lacrosse playoff with Oaklands, and a spot in the finals against Bays-Douglas Tire. Services made it two straight Tuesday night, winning with ridiculous ease. In one of the few times this season the service boys forgot about referee baiting and rough tactics and played lacrosse, with the result they displayed the form expected of a team boasting some of the finest lacrosse material in Canada. On the strength of their play Tuesday, Services showed just why they are outstanding favorites to win the city championship.

That 14-day race meeting slated to open at the Willows Sept. 12 should produce some of the finest bang-tail sport seen here in years. Chatting to assistant starter George Dunn, here on a visit, he informed us all the best stock now campaigning at Hastings Park will make the trip across the gulf. As a matter of fact the horsemen have to ship to Victoria to finish off the season. There will be no other track to offer racing. In former years Spokane always took a fair number of the geese, but that meet has been washed up like some many others south of the border. The race fans are going to get a real long stretch of their favorite sport. The final meeting at Hastings runs 14 straight days from Aug. 22 to Sept. 7, then racing resumes here for another two weeks, Sept. 12 to 28.

That little fellow Bobby Summers, whom we wrote about Wednesday comes in for a nice bit of publicity in a special article by Winnipeg's Herb Manning. Commenting on the riding activities of the Winnipeg mite, Manning writes as follows:

"Summers achieved modest success in the first part of the western season this year, until he hit the Polo park meeting in Winnipeg. Then, for three days in a row, he accounted for featured handicaps.

"In six weeks of prairie racing, young Bobby had 25 victories, 26 seconds and 16 thirds.

"Until a two-year-old named Gloverdale crushed his foot against the inside fence one day in Calgary, Summers was the top rider on the western fairs, winning flattering recommendations from some of the highest authorities in prairie racing.

"He's under contract to Doc Darbyshire of Victoria, B.C., and at the Vancouver races the Winnipeg stable of R. James Speers continually has taken second call on his services.

Bobby credits most of his success up to date to L. R. Knifong, a grizzled Texan who arrived at the Winnipeg races six years ago and finally stayed to make his home in Canada. He gave young Summers his first riding job, took him to Toronto last year and generally taught him the inside of race riding.

"Summers has given up the idea of ever becoming a top-line pumper, but hockey was his first love and he finds it hard to break loose from its appeal. Last year, he spun his 105 pounds around on behalf of Durand-Raiders in Victoria and wound up leading scorer in the junior league there.

"But that was merely a concession to a youthful ambition. Summers wants to be a Sande now, and he's just the kind of a likeable, purposeful little gent who may go a long way in that direction.

Connie Mack believes the player limit should be reduced to 21.

"It will make for better baseball," says the famous Philadelphia manager. "Pitching rosters have grown out of all proportions. Some clubs carry 10 to 12 hurlers and batting practice pitchers besides.

"I remember Detroit winning a pennant in 1907 with a five-man staff—Bill Donovan, George Mul-lin, Edgar Willett, Ed Killian and Ed Siever.

"Those five were no bigger nor stronger than pitchers today. None were as big as Red Ruffing."

Hans Lobert wails about one of the innumerable problems of managing a confirmed cellar ball club.

"Our pitchers start each game with the feeling they've got to pitch a shutout to win," complains the manager of the Philadelphia Phils. "All they ask of the fielders is not to make errors and hand the other fellows unearned runs. When Frank Melton pitches, he's practically the best hitter in our line-up. Things have come to a pretty pass when a pitcher's the best hitter in your batting order."

Jockey Shows Courage

By SCOTT YOUNG

TORONTO (CP)—A few days ago at Connaught Park in Ottawa a little man celebrated an unusual anniversary. He sat all afternoon in an automobile near the timer's stand, watching the races, greeting old friends.

Nine years ago that day there was a bad spill at Connaught. A horse named Skirt broke his neck and a jockey named Jimmy Darou was carried, limp and quiet, to a hospital. Doctors gave him little chance of living, but Jimmy Darou came through—paralyzed from the hips down.

The little man in the car was Jimmy Darou, now a service-station operator in Montreal. Since he was released from hospital a few months after his accident he has done his traveling by automobile, train and wheelchair. A fine column by Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick told of his good cheer, his lack of bitterness, as he celebrated the anniversary of an accident at which only he can laugh. His friends still shudder.

FRIENDLY WRESTLING

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson quotes wild Bill Longson that of his many bruises and scars, all but one came from wrestling fans, not wrestlers. Of that one, Longson imparts this shy and wistful reminiscence: "When I was early in the game I wrestled that big fellow, Man Mountain Dean. He weighed about a ton, fell on me, and broke my back. Really did fracture something in there. The doctors told me I would never wrestle again. But in a year and a half, I was back. The first fellow I met was Man Mountain Dean. I broke his leg in two places. Isn't civilization wonderful?"

R.A.F. Cricketers Win Over Spencers

R.A.F. cricketers came through with a 96 to 78 win over Spencers in a mid-week match, Wednesday afternoon. A close game as cricket goes, the airmen packed a little too much power in their bats.

Six of their players reached double figures as compared with three of Spencers. Their top man was Webb with 28 runs and Hall and Boulter with 14 each. Boulter was also top bowler of the day, capturing six wickets for 15 runs.

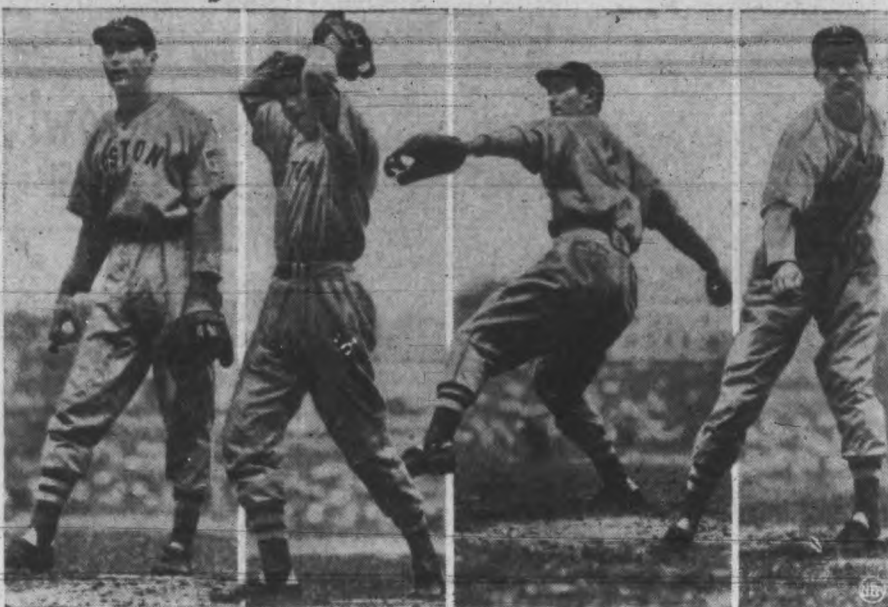

Leading Spencers was Oakman with 20 runs, Nixon with 17 and Griffin with 16. Oakman was also their standout bowler capturing four wickets for 15 runs.

Vic Clarke Champ

Vic Clarke is the new golf champion of the Elks Club. In the annual handicap tournament held at the Gorge Vale Club he posted an 18-hole score of 106-36—70. Reg. Hayward Jr. was runner-up with 93-20—73. Archie McBride had the low gross with an 89.

Bill Thacker won the hidden-hole competition with Evan Edwards runner-up. Prize for the highest score went to Carl Mackie. McBride and Archie Findlay took the prizes for the low nines. Bob Begg won the putting with Tom Gaunt second. Other prize winners were Jim McMillan, John Burns and W. Higgins.

Latest Pitching Star

Tex Hughson puts it over.

BOSTON (AP)—It was only about three months ago that all the managers of the Boston Red Sox farm teams were pleading with supervisor Herb Pennock not to send them Ceil (Tex) Hughson, then regarded as a hopelessly incurable pitching case.

Today that lanky right-handed product of the University of Texas is the first American League pitcher to gain 16 victories and appears assured of becoming the first 20-gamer the Sox have had since the departed Wes Ferrell turned that trick in 1936.

Sudden Baseball Collapse

Indians, Reds Skid

If the baseball fans in the state of Ohio have any knack for solving puzzles, they might use that talent to good advantage by finding the cause of the sudden collapse of their two entries in the major leagues.

Not so many days ago Cleveland Indians were runners-up in the American League, Cincinnati Reds were skipping along in third place in the National loop, and citizens of the Buckeye state were considering the possibility of an all-Ohio world series for the first time in history.

But changes come fast in baseball, especially for teams which lose their ability to chase runs across the plate, and today the Indians and the Reds look as if they'll be fortunate to finish in the first divisions.

Each team has lost nine of its last 11 games. The Reds have dropped into fourth place, three games away from the second division. The Indians are hanging onto the third spot in the American League by four percentage points but will find themselves sharing that position with St. Louis if the Browns win today. Pittsburgh Pirates, gunning for Cincinnati's place in the top half of the standings, handed the Reds their sixth setback in a row Wednesday and beat Paul Derringer in the bargain 9 to 2.

The drubbing left the Reds 5 1/2 games behind the third-place New York Giants, who were idle. Hank Gornick, whose two seasons in the majors produced only three previous triumphs, held the Reds to eight scattered hits, although they ended a scoring drought when they fell in the fifth. The Bucs scored eight runs in the seventh inning when they shelled Derringer off the hill.

THIRD STRAIGHT LOSS

Detroit Tigers posted the third straight loss on the Indians, 6 to 1, in a twilight game. Virgil Trucks pitched six-hit ball for the Tigers and had the help of a three-run homer by Rudy York, which bounced Jim Bagby in the third inning, and another round-tripper by Ned Harris.

The lone Cleveland run, made possible by an error, was only the 18th scored by the Indians in their last 11 games.

Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader with New York Yankees, continuing a stretch duel that would be more interesting if the Yanks were not 11 1/2 games ahead.

A pair of two-run homers by Jim Tabor and another by Ted Williams accounted for all of Boston's runs and a triumph in the first game as Tex Hughson limited the Yankees to seven hits for his 16th pitching victory and his 10th in a row.

Charlie Keller, who hit his 20th home run in the opener, smashed No. 21 with the score tied in the ninth inning of the nightcap to break up a pitching duel between Ernie Bonham and Joe Dobson and give New York a 2 to 1 decision. It was Bonham's 15th win of the year.

In the National League pennant chase, Brooklyn Dodgers crushed the Boston Braves 11 to 1 but St. Louis Cardinals

Early last August, shortly after Joe Cronin, then in dire need of pitching, called up Hughson from Louisville, the latter injured his arm while gaining a 4 to 1 win over the St. Louis Browns in the second game of a doubleheader.

Hughson nursed his ailing flipper on his 60-acre farm in Kyle, Tex., all winter, but he noted little or no improvement when it came time to report to training camp. "I have Joe Cronin to thank for my success," Hughson continued. "He was exceptionally patient with me and ordered me to take my time, not to worry and not attempt to start until I was certain I was ready."

Hughson decided he was ready on May 16, when he made his first 1942 start and turned in a two-hitter against the Browns. Since then he has beaten the Browns again and the Senators, White Sox, Athletics and Indians twice. Wednesday he turned in his third victory over the Yankees and he also has drubbed the Tigers thrice. His only three setbacks, the last on June 23, were against the Yanks, White Sox and Tigers. Since then he has reeled off 10 consecutive wins.

Navy Protest Thrown Out By Softballers

Protest of the Navy softball team over the victory of the Barons in the deciding game of the city senior A playoff was thrown out by the Lower Island Softball Association. As a result the Barons and Sidney will open their lower island final tonight at the Athletic Park, starting at 6:45.

K. of P. girls from Sidney won the first of the play-off series from the Adverts, 18 to 11, after a free-hitting battle. The team played to a deadlock in the first tussle and Wednesday night's fixture was a replay.

The Units took the measure of New Method Laundry in the Jack Taylor Memorial Cup competition, 13 to 10.

Pitzer-Nex Rally in Ninth to Tie V.M.D.

Naylor Stars With Triple To Clean Bags

Tommy Naylor, recently added to the catching staff, was the toast of the Pitzer and Nex ball team today. It was Naylor's long three-base knock in the ninth with the bases loaded that earned the gasmen a 6 to 6 tie with the Victoria Machinery Depot as the senior league playoffs opened Wednesday night.

V.M.D. entered the ninth inning with a 6 to 2 lead and apparently headed for a one-sided triumph. Then the picture changed and in a flash the score was tied and the fans left the park talking about the story-book finish.

Four runs down and seemingly helpless before the southpaw slants of Ronnie Gervais, Pitzer and Nex took their last turn at the plate in what looked like a lost cause. Tommy Musgrave opened with a single to centre field and went on to second when Chuck Restell let the ball go through him. Dunc McGeachy lined a hit into right field, scoring Musgrave. Barnswell forced McGeachy and was in turn forced by Murray. Morgan lined a single over third base and Stratton followed with a hit through second to lead the sacks. Naylor stepped to the plate and lifted the ball high over Patterson's head in right field for three bases and the score was tied. Naylor had tough luck inasmuch as he fell down going around second and lost any chance of getting a home run. Pinch hitter Art Chapman walked and Manager Bert Nex went in to hit for Garnet but grounded out to end the exciting rally.

By this time the V.M.D. players were doing a lot of squawking to umpire Tommy Restell about it being too dark to complete the inning, but the official waved play on. It didn't take long as the shilyarders were retired in order.

The clubs will meet again Saturday night in the second game of their best of three series.

Both starting pitchers went the full nine innings but they were hit hard. Gervais for the V.M.D. gave up 11 hits while he struck out 10 and walked two. The port-sider was charged with five wild pitches one of them costing a run. Musgrave was nicked for 10 hits, struck out four and walked three. Like Gervais, the big right hander had a lot of trouble with his control and cut loose with two wild pitches which went for as many runs.

V.M.D. got to Musgrave for their first run in the second frame. With one away Charlie Restell smashed a three-bagger into deep left field and scored on the first of Musgrave's wild heaves. In the third the shilyarders made it 2 to 0.

Babe Work and Restell opened with successive singles. Harney forced Restell at second, Work advancing to third. After Ian Lowe popped to the infield Harney pilfered second. Patterson walked to lead the bags. Musgrave then elected to cut loose with another wild pitch and Work walked home. Duffy was a ground out for the third man.

Fourth inning saw the V.M.D. go to town for three runs. Strouger was safe on a bad throw by third sacker Harper, sacrificed to second and went to third on a passed ball. Work got his second hit of the game to score Strouger. Restell followed with a single Work going around to third. Murray fumbled Harney's weak roller, Work scoring. Lowe's smash over second sent Restell across the plate. Patterson fanned to end the scoring bee.

In the fifth Strouger walked, was sacrificed to second, went to third on a passed ball and then stole home, catching Pitzer Musgrave and catcher Naylor sound asleep. The ended the V.M.D. scoring for the game.

Pitzer and Nex scored their first run in the fifth when Musgrave stroled home from third on a wild pitch by Gervais. They added a second in the eighth when Murray was got a life on a bad bounce of a ground ball to third baseman Euerby, went to third on Morgan's single and scored on another hit by Stratton.

That set the stage for the thrilling ninth inning windup. Restell was the big stickler with four for five.

Short score: R. H. E. Pitzer and Nex 6 11 3 V.M.D. 6 10 5 Batteries—Musgrave and Naylor; Gervais and Harney. Umpires—Restell and Casey.

Montague Takes Part

VANCOUVER (CP)—A colorful collection of amateur and professional golfers whose drawing power with the public will benefit the R.C.A.F. benevolent fund converged on Vancouver today for the $2,500 Lions Gate open tournament—a 72-hole affair over the Shaughnessy Heights Golf Course.

About 160 players are expected to tee off for the first 18 holes Friday. They'll play another 18 Saturday and then the low 60 and ties will get down to business with 36 holes Sunday. Pros will be shooting for cash prizes ranging from $35 up to $500, and the amateurs for an assortment of merchandise and the Norgan Gold Cup.

Names familiar to the movie fan rather than the sports follower got the most advance publicity. Bill Frawley and Guy Kibbee, Hollywood actors, sharing the spotlight along with John "Mysterious" Montague, the trick shot specialist also of Hollywood. But there were plenty of well-rated round-the-year players from Pacific coast cities to promise plenty of good golf.

Good news for the amateurs was that Kenny Black of Vancouver, Canadian amateur champion, would be too busy with his duties to compete.

Seattle has sent 24 entrants including Harry Givan, Ralph Whaley, Bob Connolly, and other well-known golfers from that city. Chuck Congdon of Tacoma and Neil Christian of Spokane are two others in the Washington State contingent.

Amateur Hockey To Outline Case

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has been asked to prepare a brief for national selective service officials, similar to one recently submitted by Frank Calder, National Hockey League president.

The request that a brief be submitted was made Tuesday by Elliot M. Little, director of selective service, when he was interviewed by Frank Sargent of Port Arthur, president of the C.A.H.A. It is to outline the position of the association, state the number of men involved in league operations, and other pertinent information.

What proposals Sargent intends to make are not known. The talks he held Tuesday with Little were behind closed doors. Calder's submission was made several days ago but it was understood that Little has been so busy with major developments in the selective service field that he has not yet had time to prepare a reply.

A short time ago Little permitted this quotation: "It may be necessary to give some consideration to maintaining the N.H.L. in some form, or

Oaklands Need Win Tonight

On the brink of elimination and the end of play in the 1942 season staring them in their collective faces, the Oaklands lacrosse team will give everything it has when it goes up against United Services tonight in the third game of the city championship semifinals. Game time is 8:30 at the Sports Centre.

In the first game Services defeated the red-sweatered crew, 17 to 14, in one of the best and closest games of the season. In the second tilt Oaks did everything wrong and the servicemen worked like a charm. Result—Services swamped their younger opponents, 27 to 9.

If Oaks haul the series out of the fire tonight they will play Services again, Saturday night. If they don't Services meet Bays-Douglas Tire in the first game of a best of seven series for the championship, Saturday.

Tonight's preliminary at 7 will bring together Owl Drug and Young Jokers in the first game of their series for the city juvenile A championship.

Eddie Shore to Manage Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Signing of Eddie Shore as general manager and coach of the Buffalo American League hockey team for 1942-43 season and transfer of most of Shore's Springfield ice squad to Buffalo was announced Wednesday by S. Edgar Danahy, president of the Bisons.

Shore, former star defence man of the Boston Bruins in the National League, succeeds Cecil (Tiny) Thompson, who managed the Buffalo team last year under a one-year contract. Shore was owner, player and manager of the Springfield Indians.

Shore said "about 30" players, controlled by the Springfield team, will report to Buffalo if the Canadian government allows Dominion players to cross the border into the United States for competition.

NOTHING DEFINITE

"We don't know definitely how many we will have until the Canadian government decides," he added. "We don't really know whether there's going to be any hockey until they act."

Requisition of the Springfield arena by the U.S. army, Shore said, forced last year's eastern division leaders to drop hockey for the duration.

Players now under Springfield contract, Danahy said, will revert to the Indians at the conclusion of the war.

The Buffalo team finished fourth in the western division of the league last season, while Indianapolis, the winner, defeated Shore's club in the playoffs.

Art Stevenson Gets Grid Coaching Job

WINNIPEG (CP)—Art Stevenson, former star halfback of the Canadian football champions, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been appointed coach of the University of Manitoba team in the three-team Winnipeg City Football League.

Stevenson, who came here from Hastings College, Nebraska, in 1937, has been one of the Western Interprovincial Union's brightest stars and last year led the union in scoring. He suffered a severe knee injury in the western playoffs and was unable to play in the national final. The injury still bothers him, but he may turn out with Varsity this season. Stevenson has completed his medical course at University of Manitoba and is now a hospital interne.

ESKIMOS ACT WELL IN FILMS

Eskimos are the greatest natural actors in the world, and are able to perform with complete lack of self-consciousness with seldom more than one rehearsal, according to Michael Powell, celebrated English motion picture director who journeyed to Baffinland to obtain scenes for the British-Canadian film "49th Parallel," now being released by Columbia. It opens at the York Theatre today.

Eskimos figure prominently in the film, which recounts the adventures of six Nazi sailors whose submarine is sunk by R.C.A.F. planes but who escape ashore to try to make their way across Canada to the Pacific coast. Some of the most vivid acting is done by the isolated natives of Wolstenholme.

'MAJOR BARBARA' HAS SUPERB CAST

A rare entertainment treat for moviegoers was unveiled today at the Capitol Theatre, where George Bernard Shaw's brilliant comedy, "Major Barbara," which was produced and directed by Gabriel Pascal, was presented at a gala premiere under the auspices of United Artists. Shaw's famous play makes superb screen fare and the new picture is acted brilliantly by an outstanding cast of stars which includes Wendy Hiller, Robert Morley, Rex Harrison, Emyln Williams, Dame Sybil Thorndike, David Tree, Kathleen Cordell and Penelope Dudley Ward.

ATLAS THEATRE
Paul Dresser, brother of Theodore Dreiser, composed many outstanding popular songs. His most famous are "On the Banks of the Wabash" and "My Gal Sal," the latter of which is the title of the 20th Century-Fox technicolor film which is now at the Atlas Theatre.

The story of "My Gal Sal" deals with Dresser's life, and stars Rita Hayworth, Victor Mature, John Sutton and Carole Landis. Irving Cummings directed the feature, which was produced by Robert Bassler.

In these grave times, not only by the game, but by others. If we're going to win the war it is hardly the time to be thinking about enriching ourselves. It is on that principle that baseball must continue—will continue.

Baseball has given many players to the service and it will give many more . . . the majors have not yet felt the full impact of what will come in the drain on manpower.

FORMBY AT PEAK OF COMEDY FORM

The one and only George Formby is at the very peak of his comedy form in "South American George," which opens at the Dominion Theatre Friday.

A terrific riot of fun from start to finish, the picture is Formby's first big Columbia production and is without any question his greatest and funniest. As the hapless George Butters, a "gormless" lad with operatic ambitions but no ability, Formby is persuaded to impersonate an extremely temperamental opera star who has walked out on the show, and to whom George bears a striking resemblance. The fun—and what terrific fun it is!—begins when Formby has to sing in opera, for which he has neither the Italian tongue nor the restrained tenor voice, and proceeds through a mad succession of hilarious scenes which are guaranteed to leave any audience doubled-up with laughter.

'Mrs. Miniver' Opens At Capitol Monday

Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, acclaimed as a team in "Blossoms in the Dust," are reunited in a totally different type of play, M-G-M's "Mrs. Miniver," dramatic story of the heroism of English families under bomb raids and danger, coming Monday to the Capitol Theatre.

The story is not a war story, though war is its background. It concerns the inhabitants of a small English village; middle-class people who try valiantly to live life as usual though under constant peril, for the sake of morale on the home front. Air raids, the rescue at Dunkerque, and the final bombing of the village, are among its thrills. Through these run simple, human episodes of family life, even in air raid shelters, and comedy and romance of everyday folk.

PLAZA HOLDS OVER PICTURE

Red-headed Dick Foran has been trying for 110 pictures to get the role of vocalist with a top orchestra in a photoplay. Dick is a fine singer and got his start in Hollywood as a singing cowboy in movies. But he was never able—until his current picture—to get the opportunity to sing and portray the role of a vocalist. In Universal's comedy-musical "Private Buckaroo," which is being held over at Plaza Theatre, he gets the part he always wanted.

CAPITOL THEATRE
Merry Romantic Mix-up is Paramount's "Take a Letter Darling," which is currently at the Capitol Theatre with Rosalind Russell and Fred MacMurray co-starring, and Macdonald Carey, Robert Benchley and Constance Moore in support. It's all about a woman executive who won't admit she's in love with her male secretary. Miss Russell is the executive, MacMurray her secretary. Hilarious complications make "Take a Letter, Darling" a highly entertaining fun film.

Goodrich Rubber Chief Honored

KITCHENER, Ont.—"The American rubber industry is now being geared for an all-out war job both in its production of rubber products for war equipment and the construction of synthetic rubber plants, but the Canadian industry is keeping pace with its big brother in the U.S.A." That's the report brought back to Canada by G. W. Sawin, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Canada, Limited, president of the Canadian Rubber Association and a director of the Canadian Synthetic Rubber Corporation.

Mr. Sawin has just returned from Akron, Ohio, where he attended a dinner given in honor of his 30 years' service with B. F. Goodrich by the company's president, John L. Collier.

Mr. Sawin's long experience in the rubber business adequately qualifies him for the important posts he now occupies in the Canadian rubber industry during these critical years of war.

In 1912 Mr. Sawin started his career with Goodrich as a salesman. Since then he has served as assistant branch manager at Buffalo, branch manager at Chicago, district manager at New York, manager automobile tire department, Akron, and eastern division manager. In 1936 he was appointed vice-president and general manager of B. F. Goodrich in Canada, and in 1941 was made president of this company.

B. F. Goodrich has been one of the leaders in the development of synthetic rubber and Mr. Sawin is keenly interested in the synthetic rubber plant now being constructed in Canada. He reports: "The ground has now been broken for the new plant and work is progressing well ahead of plans. Even though rubber from this plant is not expected to be available until 1943, it is our main hope of maintaining production of war equipment in which rubber is required."

Baseball Should Carry On—Rickey

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Baseball should continue during the war without emphasis on profit, Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said Wednesday.

And the originator of the baseball farm system, in an interview with the Sporting News, predicted the game would carry on although some minor leagues might fold in 1943.

Munro Writes Dieppe Epic

Doctor Keeps His Eyes Open for 12 Hours

LONDON (CP Cable)—A tall, unshaven young man burst into the London office of the Canadian Press early today, dropped his khaki-clad figure in front of a typewriter and began pounding out the journalistic history of Canada's part in the Dieppe assault.

More than 12 hours later Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, was still banging away at his machine, putting on paper an eye-witness story of the dramatic operation.

"I'd say it was one of the best stories of the war," said Robert Bunnelle, chief of the Associated Press London bureau. "Certainly there has been nothing like it since the bombing of London."

The story was cabled in full to the United States and also to Australia, but the only comment Munro made was "I'm glad someone likes it."

DOCTOR KEEPS HIM AWAKE

For hours on end the former University of Toronto student sat in his torn, blood-stained battle dress, ignoring food placed beside him. For three days and as many nights he had not been to bed and now as he sat typing from a scribbled sheet of notes, he smoked endlessly and nibbled benzadrine tablets given him by a Canadian medical officer to keep his eyelids open.

To accompany the Canadian army on secret manoeuvres was old stuff to this quiet-spoken, conscientious reporter, who deems it his duty to cover the Five motorists were fined $2.50 each in police court today on parking charges.

Sale of three reverted lots will be recommended by the city lands committee to the City Council at its next meeting.

Harry J. Smith, chief of the Canadian Pacific Railway publicity department, Montreal, is in the city today. It is his first visit to the coast in a couple of years.

Wilfred Mainwaring, a porter at the Glenisiel Hotel, reported to police at 10.50 Wednesday night that a radio, valued at $29, had been stolen from his room in the hotel.

Further service interruptions were made to Gonzales district water users today as scraping operations on the Fairfield main continued. The work is expected to be completed Friday.

George Taylor, 803 Hillside, reported to police at 12.45 this morning that his 1928 Essex sedan, license number 10-748, had been stolen from the V.M.D. parking lot while he was on shift sometime between 4.30 and 12.30.

Theft of a dozen golf balls, two pairs of pliers, two screw drivers and a wrench from his car while parked in the Empress Hotel grounds, was reported to police at four Wednesday afternoon by C. E. Revercomb, 759 Mount Joy Avenue. He said the theft occurred sometime the night before.

Signs announcing U-turns are prohibited at the Johnson and Blanshard, Johnson and Government, Pandora and Quadra and Fort and Blanshard intersections will be erected shortly and a new slow warning sign for Kingston Street school has been ordered, Alderman Ed. Williams, chairman of the city's public works committee, reported Wednesday.

The Wednesday night Civic Cheer-up concert at Beacon Hill Park was enjoyed by a record crowd of thousands of people. There not being enough entries for a duet competition the singers competed singly, first prize going to Corpl. M. Lillo of the Medical Corps, singing "Rose Marie".

Second prize went to Stoker J. Stewart, H.M.C.S. Naden, singing "Rose O'Day" and third prize was won by Corpl. D. F. McDonald, 2nd Canadian Scottish. Miss Evelyn McLaren's songs and tap dancing on a foot-square slab made a big hit.

The dramatic ability of Dorothy, who has dared to sing the Norwegian national anthem as she and other children were gathered in front of the schoolhouse on location near here, is seized and roughly handled by the captain of the Nazi guard, Alexander Knox.

The dramatic ability of Dorothy has so impressed Producer Cowan it is possible she may appear in other productions. She was discovered when picked with others from a local dancing school to appear in the film as juvenile extras.

Effect of the war on fishery production is being investigated by D. B. Finn, deputy Minister of Fisheries, Ottawa, who reached the city this morning to confer with provincial fisheries officials.

He is registered at the Empress Hotel and expects to leave tonight on his return trip east.

While on the coast Mr. Finn has been making a survey of fishing vessels and the productive capacity of the industry.

During the day he called on George J. Alexander, assistant commissioner of B. C. fisheries.

The grand jury returned a "no bill" after a week of studying evidence in the case.

William D. Mitchell, New York attorney and former U.S. attorney-general, sent to Chicago by the department of justice to conduct the investigation, announced the grand jury's decision which absolved the Tribune of guilt.

The story stated that strength of the Japanese fleet approaching Midway was known in advance to the U.S. navy.

Mitchell, who served as attorney-general under President Hoover, handed a formal statement to newspapermen without additional comment.

"I have conducted the inquiry as fully and fairly as I know how. Those under investigation were given the unusual privilege of appearing before the grand jury and explaining their connection with the incident."

"The jury has considered the case fully, and its conclusion that no violation of law was disclosed settles the matter."

The jury reportedly took the case under advisement later yesterday after three and a half hours of testimony by Tribune Managing Editor J. Loy Maloney and Stanley Johnston, war correspondent who furnished most of the material for the story.

Japanese Repatriates Return to Homeland

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcast, AP)—The liners Asama Maru and Conte Verde reached Yokohama today with 1,421 Japanese repatriates, mainly from the United States, exchanged for Americans taken from the Orient to Portuguese East Africa by the same liners.

Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, who was Japan's ambassador to Washington, and Saburo Kurusu, special envoy to Washington when the Pacific war broke out, were among the passengers.

Evacuee Here Defies Nazis

Twelve-year-old Dorothy Page, an evacuee from England, experienced the biggest thrill of her young life when she acted a bit part in the Lester Cowan production "The Commandos Come at Dawn" with the great Hollywood star, Paul Muni.

Dorothy and her brother Peter, 16, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Page, reside at Maldstone, Kent, are the war guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dorman, 2369 Florence Street, Oak Bay. She attends the Willows School and is in grade 7.

In the dramatic scene above, Dorothy, who has dared to sing the Norwegian national anthem as she and other children were gathered in front of the schoolhouse on location near here, is seized and roughly handled by the captain of the Nazi guard, Alexander Knox.

The dramatic ability of Dorothy has so impressed Producer Cowan it is possible she may appear in other productions. She was discovered when picked with others from a local dancing school to appear in the film as juvenile extras.

The extreme ruthlessness of the Nazis is depicted when the invaders enter the Norwegian village and, incensed by the children singing the national air, seize and beat them for their defiant gesture.

Asked how she liked acting in the movies, Dorothy said: "I was a bit scared at first; but it is quite nice."

Not only has she acting ability, but she also is a writer who has already been recognized by the publishing houses.

Dorothy's letters to her mother and father in Maldstone since she has been in Canada have been so graphic that they are being assembled and published in book form by a well-known publishing house in London.

The little actress-author loves Victoria, which has been her home for three years, and her brother shares her views.

"I don't think I'll ever want to go back to England," said Dorothy. "It is so wonderful here and everybody is so nice to us. My brother and I hope to have father and mother come out here after the war."

Remand 2 Cases Another Week

George Henry Hall, Jonu Graham Simpson and Leonard J. Simmons were remanded for another week when they appeared in police court today to answer charges of conspiring to defraud in supplies that were allegedly never delivered to the B.C. police.

They will come up for a further remand Aug. 27, this procedure to continue until the preliminary hearing in the case of Joseph Arthur Walsh and Simmons, former quartermaster of the B.C. police, is completed.

J. B. Clearhugh, K.C. prosecuting for the Crown, told the court today he did not know how long this would be as he had 24 or 25 witnesses in the Walsh-Simmons case.

Magistrate H. C. Hall turned down a request on the part of Stuart Henderson, counsel for Hall, that his case be proceeded with this Monday. Mr. Clearhugh and P. J. Sinnott, the latter counsel for Simmons, said they could not possibly go on.

"I don't see why we can't go on," Mr. Henderson said. "I am ready. There is only one charge in this case. I suggest we go on Monday."

Mr. Sinnott said he could not accede to that suggestion as it would not be fair to his client.

Mr. Clearhugh said it was the Crown's intention to take the Walsh-Simmons case first, then the Simpson-Simmons case, and lastly the Hall-Simmons case.

In answer to Mr. Henderson's request that the Hall-Simmons case come up for preliminary hearing immediately the Walsh-Simmons case was finished, Mr. Clearhugh said he would have to confer with the other Crown prosecutor, W. C. Moresby, K.C.

School Hour Later

VANCOUVER (CP)—Public schools in rural Delta, south of Vancouver, will open at 10 instead of 9 in the morning to permit farm children to complete chores before classes and permit them to go to school in daylight during winter, E. R. Bell, secretary of the Delta Board of School Trustees, announced today.

Capt. Peabody to Form Wooden Sailship Fleet

Capt. Alexander M. Peabody, Seattle shipping expert who has been named president of the corporation to build an emergency sailing fleet, inspects the model hull of sailing craft that soon will be plying in the Spanish main.

By ROBERT RUARK

WASHINGTON—It is said in some parts of New England that the only reason the Peabodys didn't come over in the Mayflower was that they preferred to sail their own vessel. This may be a slight exaggeration, but Peabodys were skipping out of Nantucket when America was very young.

Today another Peabody, long divorced from the mizen-mast, turns back his forefathers' clock, but on a considerably grander scale. Capt. Alexander M. Peabody of Seattle, has just accepted the job of forming an emergency cargo fleet of sailing ships for the Latin-American trade, to ease the ache of commerce curtailment between banana republics and America.

(Capt. Peabody is well known in Victoria, being a frequent visitor here in connection with the steamship services he controls.)

U.S. GIVES HIM $10,000,000 CREDIT

Peabody, a chunky, scarred seafarer, has been made president of a corporation set up by Nelson Rockefeller, co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs. The corporation has $50,000 worth of working capital, $10,000,000 worth of credit with RFC, and the task of supplying 100 wooden sailing ships of less than a thousand dead-weight tons. Time is short; Peabody, just arrived in Washington to start things moving, says his ships will be sailing in five or six months.

Some ships will be built in Caribbean shipyards, of native material by native workmen. Crews will be recruited in Cuba and Trinidad and Nicaragua. In all the Caribbean republics whose menfolk know a mainsail from a tiller. Other ships already built, may be refitted in America's gulf ports—or even built complete, if materials can be found and time saved by building them here.

It is estimated that 100 vessels of an average of 350 tons could handle a million cargo tons yearly, thus stepping up inter-American commerce greatly reduced by wartime shipping restrictions and heavy submarine losses. Though much slower than steamships, small sail boats

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Temporary Accommodation for Ships' Companies, New Drydock, Esquimalt, B.C.," will be received until 3 p.m. (B.S.T.), Tuesday, September 8, 1942, for the construction of Temporary Accommodation for Ships' Companies at the new Drydock, Esquimalt, B.C.

Plans and specification can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the office of the Chief Architect, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, the District Resident Architect, Post Office Building, Victoria, B.C., the Caretaker, Post Office Building, Vancouver, B.C. and at the Post Office, Esquimalt, B.C.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein. Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender, or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada, or the tender as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

NOTE—The Department, through the Chief Architect's office, and the office of the District Resident Architect at Victoria, B.C., will supply blue-prints and specification of the work on deposit of a sum of $25.00. In the form of a certified bank cheque payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works. The deposit will be released on return of the blue-prints and specification within a month from the date of receipt of tenders. If not returned within that period the deposit will be forfeited.

By order,

Secretary,
Department of Public Works, sticks. "If the army ants can do it," Taylor mused, "why can't we take small sailing ships and build our own stockpile of coffee and sugar, and at the same time ease the commercial strain between Caribbean republics which depend so heavily on import and export?"

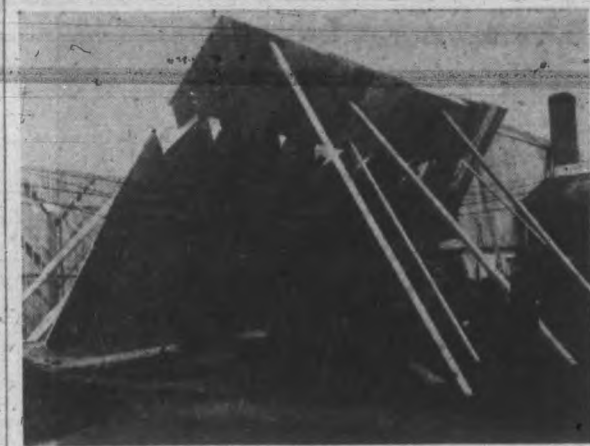

The Board of Economic Warfare, Maritime Commission, War Production Board and military said okay. And that is where Mr. Peabody came into the picture.

Peabody's father, who went to the west coast in 1889, eventually quit a treasury job to join the handful of men who formed the Alaska Steamship Company. Peabody's great-grandfather, Charles Marshall, established the Black Ball Line. (The title Black Ball Line is still retained by the Puget Sound Navigation Company in the operation of its Seattle-Port Angeles-Victoria and other coast services.) And Peabody himself has done everything you can do on the sea... except drown in it.

Before World War One young Peabody shipped on a windjammer and moved from ordinary seaman to second mate in a year. Came the war, and he served with troop transports to Europe, later joining the navy, from which he emerged as a lieutenant. He worked as a shipbuilder after the war, and then went to the Barber Lines, a round-the-world freight outfit. He rose to master of his ship, nosed into every corner of the world, and then took a shore job with a brokerage company. Since 1926 he has been with the Puget Sound Navigation Co., of which he is president.

Peabody is a burly, shy sailing man with a grizzled mustache

Gone With the Wind

A high wind caught this pre-fabricated wall of the Pacific Sheet Metal Works, corner of Vancouver and View Streets, and blew it onto some high tension wires leading to the Northwestern Dairy Ltd., causing a slight fire. Sparks from the wires started the wood smouldering, but the Victoria fire department soon extinguished it.

from which grows a perpetual cigar.

He believes that sailing ships will throw considerable monkey wrenches into the Germans' submarine offensive. In the first place, sailing vessels aren't so easily detected as steamers. There is no humming engine to give their position away.

"And in the second," says Peabody, "I can't picture submarines wasting a lot of ammunition on every sailboat that comes along."

LONDON (CP)—More than 63,000 conscientious objectors have been registered since the start of the war, Labor Minister Bevin said in a written answer in the House of Commons.

4th Victim of Crash, L.A.C. Reed, Kingston

DUNNVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A fourth flier killed Wednesday when two planes crashed was today identified as L.A.C. Archibald Campbell Reed of Kingston, Ont. Six men lost their lives in the accident which occurred off nearby Evans Point.

Three of the airmen were identified yesterday as F.O. Maxwell Boyer Polle and L.A.C. Gordon Cragg Burke of Toronto, and L.A.C. Warren Milton Kirkby of Bulwer, Que. Names of the other two men, one of whom is believed from New Zealand, are withheld until next-of-kin have been notified.

Allied Planes Blast Jap Warships

H.M.A.S. Canberra sunk.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA (AP) — Allied planes attacked Japanese warships in the northern Solomons Wednesday in continuing support of the United States invasion forces in the southeast, and the loss of the 10,000-ton Australian cruiser Canberra was disclosed officially today.

(Brisbane, the capital city of Queensland and the largest city on the northeastern coast of Australia, underwent an air raid alarm today. The streets were filled with shoppers who at first thought the alarm was only in practice, but they soon learned it was in earnest.

(Air raid wardens donned their tin hats and directed the people to shelters and cautioned them against standing in the streets or at doorways).

74 CREW MISSING

The Canberra apparently was sunk in the first stages of the Allied naval-air invasion of the southern Solomons. She carried a full complement of 816 but most of the crew was saved. Seventy-four men were missing and believed killed, another 10 died of wounds, and 109 were wounded, the communique said.

The Canberra was serving under U.S. Vice-Admiral Robert Lee Gormley when she went down off the Solomons, and the Allied communique in announcing the loss said "the traditions of Australia know no greater glory than this dead ship."

The U.S. already had announced the sinking of one cruiser, the damaging of two destroyers and one transport in the Solomon action.

The Canberra, completed in 1928, mounted eight-inch guns, and was one of Australia's largest cruisers.

Among those fatally wounded was the Canberra's captain,

Frank Edmund Getting of Sydney.

PLANES COMB PACIFIC

The methodical fight for the Solomons was continuing with General MacArthur's Flying Fortress crews combating the Japanese for any signs of Japanese reinforcements.

The latest attack was on Japanese warships encountered off the little island of Faisi near Bougainville, 400 miles north of the Tulagi area where U.S. Marines were exploiting footholds obtained early in the invasion.

The communique said the results of the attack were not determined. The Allied planes weathered a heavy curtain of Japanese anti-aircraft fire and regained their bases.

Australian-manned Hudson bombers also attacked a Japanese-occupied town in Dutch Timor far to the northwest of Australia. The results of this attack also were not observed, the communique said.

applied only to tea, coffee and sugar, all products which we import either entirely or in major quantity," J. Gordon Taggart, food administrator for the War-time Prices and Trade Board, said.

"Even if we lost every imported article we could live well. We could even do without sugar if we had to, although it would mean an adjustment in the diets of all Canadians to meet a situation where we would have to get along with only about 20 per cent of the sugar we now use annually."

Mr. Taggart took five major food groups and reviewed the Canadian position:

1. Cereals: From the forthcoming crop and the wheat now in store Canada has enough wheat to feed the Dominion for 15 years.

2. Meats: Canada will produce about 7,000,000 hogs this year, while the number required for home consumption is about 2,250,000. The total production might rise to 8,000,000 in 1943. Canada produces more beef cattle than it can eat. It is able to meet home requirements and export 100,000 head annually to

Aim to Surpass Goal for Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States War Production Board expects to see President Roosevelt's shipbuilding goal for this year—8,000,000 deadweight tons—not only achieved but surpassed by about 10 per cent.

The production board has boosted its schedule, close to 9,000,000 tons for the year, it was disclosed by an official.

Approval of the increase scheduled by the Maritime Commission means that the board feels it is self-ready to give assurance that sufficient steel plates and shapes will be on hand to send perhaps 80 or 90 more cargo vessels into the water than were previously scheduled.

The best shipbuilding record so far achieved was July's record output of 71 ships weighing 790,000 deadweight tons.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Foreign exchange late rates:

Canada: Official Canadian dollar Board rates for U.S. dollars: Buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent.

Canadian dollar in New York open market 10 7-16 per cent discount or 89.56 U.S. cents, up 1-16 cent.

Europe (Great Britain official bankers foreign exchange committee rates): Buying $4.02, selling $4.04 open market; cables $4.04.

the United States without difficulty.

Supplies of poultry and eggs are plentiful, although 30,000,000 dozen eggs are being shipped to the United Kingdom this year.

Feed for poultry is abundant.

3. Dairy products: Fluid milk consumption is up 12 per cent over last year and in 1941 a consumption gain of 10 per cent over 1940 was reported.

Butter supplies will be adequate by next spring.

4. Fruit and vegetables: The supplies of all home-grown vegetables are sufficient and the canning program will also be larger this year except in the minor fruits. A surplus of apples is in prospect, and potatoes and onions, a little short of requirements last year, will be sufficient.

5. Fish: Sufficient supplies of most fish are being obtained and marketed. All canned salmon is being sent to the United Kingdom.

Weakness Continues

TORONTO (CP) — Further weakness was registered by the Toronto Exchange this afternoon and industrials and both mining groups had net losses for the day. Western oils were lifeless and unchanged. Turnover was close to 100,000 shares.

Golds moved into new low ground for the year or longer. Kerr-Addison sold down 20 to 3.55. Lake Shore was off 25 to 7.75 and losses of 3 to 8 cents were netted by Malaric Gold Fields, Preston and Hollinger.

Steep Rock dipped 11 to 1.27. Waite-Amulet was down 20 to 4.00.

Steels, senior oils and utilities posted more losses than gains. Losses of a point or more appeared for Page-Hersey, Dominion Foundries pfd., and McColl pfd. and Bell Telephone, Brazilian, International Pete, Superstee Oil, Cannors B and Dominion Steel B weakened fractions.

Slight weakness was showing in the western oil group for British-Dominion and Anglo-Canadian.
